Magic-Hollywood merger vote set

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Casino Magic stockholders vote Sept. 8 on a proposed merger with Hollywood Park Inc., a move that would put $86.6 million into a buy out of the locally-based casino company's stock.

As of July 24, there were 35.7 million shares of common stock outstanding, each representing one vote in the upcoming balloting. Hollywood proposes to pay $2.27 per share.

If stockholders were to reject the merger, Casino Magic would have to pay Hollywood $3.5 million, and bear the costs of merger transactions, another $2.25 million, company officials say.

While the merger agreement bars Casino Magic from soliciting further merger or sale offers, the board could consider unsolicited "superior" offers before its union with Hollywood is final.

If Hollywood didn't at least match such an offer, Casino Magic could back out, but it would have to pay Hollywood Park $3.5 million.

Next month's vote culminates more than 18 months of explorations and negotiations concerning the future of Casino Magic, which opened in Bay St. Louis on Sept. 30, 1992.

It was the first gaming operation on the Gulf Coast to operate on a barge. Since then, all major Gulf Coast casino construction has occurred on barges.

Casino Magic owns other major casinos in Biloxi and Bossier City, La., and has a majority ownership of two casinos in Argentina.

The upcoming annual stockholders meeting, at the Biloxi casino's new hotel, also features a board of directors election with the incumbent board all posed for re-election. Presumably, they would serve in their present capacities until the merger becomes effective, and then be replaced by a new board of directors.

Casino Magic would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hollywood Park through the merger, which could be consummated by Oct. 31, unless regulatory agencies fail to approve the arrangement.

Hollywood Park owns and operates thoroughbred racing facilities in Los Angeles and Phoenix.

In addition, its subsidiary Boomtown, owns and operates land-based, docks and river boat casinos in Nevada, Biloxi and

Hancock County Trade Show set for Thursday

"If community enthusiasm for Hancock County's first Business and Industry Expo is any indication, the event is sure to be a success," said Amy Gregory, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce executive director.

The trade show, sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is set for Thursday, Aug. 27, 3-7 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in Waveland.

Some 36 vendors are participating, many of which will be giving away door prizes to those who register at their booth. A grand prize drawing will be held for a trip donated by Hancock Bank. There will be a cash bar and food provided compliments of Casino Magic and the Blue Dish. General admission is $2.

Raymos McMillon, chairman of the Hancock County Chamber Members Services Committee, which initiated and organized the event, said the response has been outstanding for a trade show in Hancock County.

"The enthusiasm is definitely there for the trade show," McMillon said. "With the overwhelming response from our members for the expo, we know that we can plan on an even bigger one next year."

"Our goal is to help our members increase their businesses by increasing awareness of their services," said Gregory.

"We will have a full house of a diverse group of exhibitors," said Gregory. We expect well over 200 people to pass through the Holiday Inn to see what services our vendors are offering."

Reef added to Ladner Pier

Fishermen have a new spot to try out in Waveland.

On Tuesday, the concerted effort of Congressman Gene Taylor's office, the City of Waveland and the Mississippi Gulf Fishing Banks Project came to fruition with the creation of a new fishing reef just off the end of the Garfield Ladner Municipal Pier.

Concrete material was deposited in the water Tuesday afternoon beginning approximately 75 feet from the southeast corner of the pier, extending east and southeast about 300 feet.

The project began about nine months ago with talks between Waveland Alderman Tommy Longo and Chris LaGarde, who works in Taylor's office as Special Assistant for Fisheries and Natural Resources.

Construction could begin by mid-September on a project that will extend sewerage and water to more than 500 residents of Shoreline Park.

Hancock County's Wastewater District I met Aug. 13, and 10 contractors bid on the project. The District reconvened last Wednesday and confirmed that Colom Construction Co. of Ripley was the low bidder.

At the same time bids were opened, the District took separate bids from firms interested in providing the grinder systems for the sewerage treatment, but at Wednesday's meeting, the District rejected those bids and decided to give the entire contract to extend the sewerage system and provide the grinders to Colom.

Colom's combined bid was for $1,428,751, while the lowest bid received by other firms on the grinders was $436,380.

District Administrator Pam Gauthreaux said, "The grinders are the same now being used throughout the system."

Clermont residents receiving alarms

Mildred Lott has a little yapping dog, but last week she got even more protection at her house in Clermont Harbor.

She watched with thankful eyes while a volunteer fireman climbed a ladder in her house and installed a fire and smoke detector.

Lott was the first recipient of alarms that are being made available free to about 660 people in the Clermont Harbor Fire Protection District.

The Volunteer Fire Department has received a $2,000 grant from the Mississippi Forestry Commission and Fire Chief Charles M. Jackson got his department to come up with a match of $2,000.

The funds were used to buy the smoke detectors in quantity, and Pete Lestelle, assistant secretary-treasurer of the department, said they are available to all Clermont Harbor residents who do not now have one in their home.

"We estimate we have a little more than 800 people in our Fire Protection District," said Lestelle. "And, some people already have smoke detectors in their homes. These are for those who don't have any."

Lestelle said residents can call the Volunteer Fire Department at 467-3345 and request a smoke detector.

"The station is not manned 24 hours a day, so leave a message on the recorder, and someone will get back to you," Lestelle promised.

Santoya family leaves county

BY BETSY GAGNET

The Santoya family who was rescued by a Mississippi State Trooper on I-10 earlier this month have apparently left the area.

The family had been picked up near Highway 603 and reported they had walked from Mobile, Alabama following a trip to Decatur, Georgia for the funeral of Joe Santoya's mother.

On Monday, the Sea Coast Echo was provided a copy of an article which ran in the Lake Charles American Press on August 13, chronicling a strangely similar story. The article told of a man who helped Joe Santoya, his wife Marybelle and their six children, when they were found walking on I-10.

The American Press reported that the Santoyas told the man they had been walking and hitchhiking since their car broke down outside of Boise, Idaho following a trip to visit Joe Santoya's dying mother in Seattle.

Upon receipt of the article, the Echo contacted Celeste Prioux with Hancock County Social Services who had been working on a daily basis with the Santoyas since their rescue by a Mississippi State trooper on August 3.

Prioux asked the family about the story and said Joe Santoya denied being in Lake Charles.

Prioux said she told the Santoyas that even if the story was true, things could be worked out.

"I told them, 'It doesn't matter how you got here. You're here now and you've got six children who need help and people who are willing to help you,'" said Prioux.

The next morning, Prioux arrived at the Santoya's hotel room to find them gone.

"Basically, the stuff they came with was gone," she said.

During their time in Hancock County, the family received generous donations from numerous kind-hearted people who had heard of their story. In addition to cash donations, the family was housed in a local motel, and arrangements had been made to get them into an apartment.

Prioux, who spent time nearly every day with the Santoyas, said the children were well taken care of, and that regardless of the circumstances, the money they received was used primarily for the children.

"I never saw them buy anything extra for themselves, except a small inexpensive tape player," said Prioux. "They bought clothes and shoes for the children."

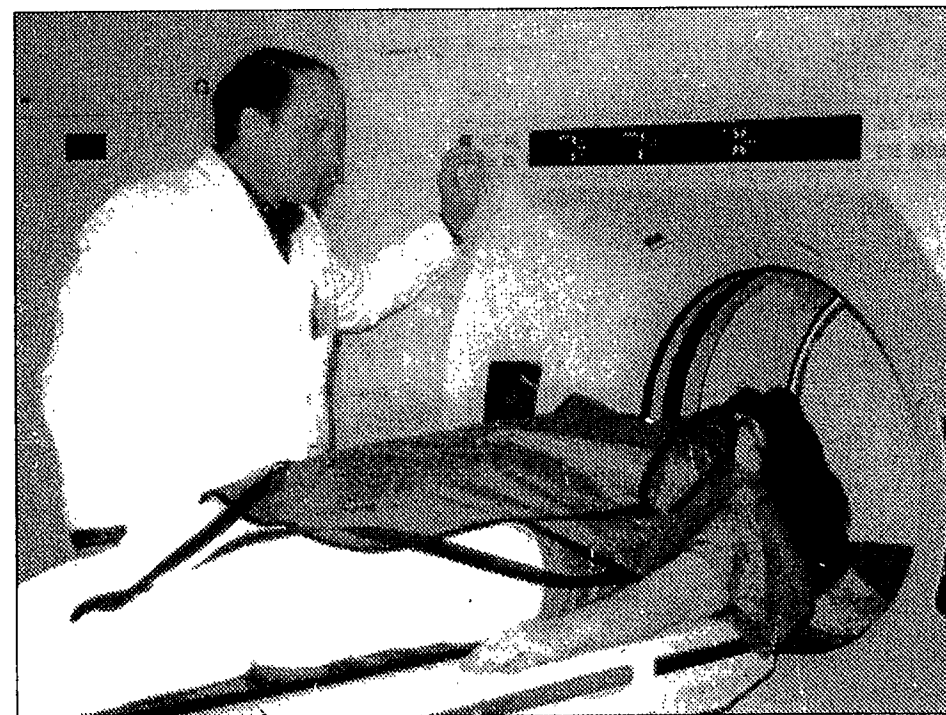

The family had begun receiving food stamps and had even begun painting an apartment which they were scheduled to move into. Maribel had gotten a job at a local pre-school and Joe Jr., 5, was attending kindergarten.

Several background checks had either already been run on the family, or were in the process during the course of their applications for assistance at different agencies.

Despite the outcome, Prioux said she saw first hand that, at least for a short time, the six children ranging in age from 10 months to five years old, benefited from the kindness of strangers. During her time with them, even the last time she saw them, Prioux said she repeatedly encouraged them to put down roots.

"It could be that they were afraid that we wouldn't believe them and wouldn't trust them and would take their kids away," said Prioux. "But we were not going to do that because the children were well taken care of."

McDonald proposes employee pay raises, property tax cut

BY ED LEPOMA

For the third year in a row, Pass Christian Mayor Billy McDonald has proposed a pay raise for all city employees, and will urge them to adopt an incentive plan to keep veteran police and firemen on the force.

Details of the mayor's $7.3 million proposed budget emerged after a workshop with aldermen last week. It will be further reviewed at another workshop planned at City Hall at 5 p.m. Aug. 26.

Under the proposed budget, the city's 97 employees would be granted four percent pay raises, effective Oct. 1, the same amount they received last year. But, at the urging of Police Chief John Dubuison and Fire Chief Rusty Nicaise, McDonald wants aldermen to adopt a plan that pays police and firemen for staying on the force. The plan would pay each $1,000 more a year after they complete five years of service. After that, they would receive the same percentage increase given other city employees.

McDonald said this would especially keep police officers from taking higher paying jobs in other law enforcement agencies across the coast. "We've been a training ground for police officers, and we're hoping this will keep our officers from leaving," said McDonald.

City Comptroller Tammy DiLorenzo said the pay raises would cost about $113,000 to implement, and the city will be able to provide the raises and purchase some new equipment because she is forecasting that Pass Christian will end the fiscal year Sept. 30 with a surplus of nearly $900,000.

DiLorenzo said the mayor is also proposing a one-mill reduction in property taxes for residents living within the city. That would mean a break of $1 for every $1,000 of assessed property value.

The mayor's proposed budget also includes the purchase of five new police patrol cars at an estimated cost of $99,000 and a new emergency response vehicle for the Fire Department, estimated to cost $75,000. DiLorenzo said the vehicles would be acquired through a lease-purchase option. The budget also proposes to spend about $4,000 to purchase a safety patrol skiff for the harbor master.

McDonald also wants to hire a full-time purchasing agent for the city, and will recommend hiring Gayle Vreeland for that position. She has been working as secretary to the fire department, keeping track of workman's compensation claims, and helping the city with its fixed assets inventory.

McDonald said she would continue in those duties, in addition to acting as purchasing agent. He said Vreeland's present salary would jump from about $16,000 to $19,000, and the city would have central control over purchasing equipment and supplies for all city departments.

"She will more than pay for her salary," said McDonald. "The city will save thousands of dollars in the course of a year."

McDonald also boosted that for the first time in 10 years, the city will not have to borrow money to cover expenses in anticipation of tax collections.

The mayor's proposed budget of $7.3 million, compares to a budget of $6.95 million used for operating next year. After the Aug. 26 workshop, a public hearing is scheduled on the budget at 6 p.m. on Sept. 8 at City Hall.

The Board of Aldermen plans to adopt a final budget at a meeting, scheduled for Sept. 15.

Piazza seeks Fourth Ward alderman seat

Charles Piazza, 39, of Waveland is announcing his candidacy for alderman, Ward Four, for the upcoming Democratic primary.

Piazza, a lifelong resident of Waveland, is a 1977 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School and a graduate of Pearl River Community College in Poplarville. Currently he is employed by Gulf Coast Fabrications in Pearlport.

In seeking the alderman's seat, Piazza feels the residents of the Fourth Ward need a representative who will be a visible and vocal link between the community and City Hall.

"If elected, I will work toward an increase in economic development in order to create jobs and promote better utilization of the present sales tax return to the city," he said.

He is married to the former Emily Yarbrough of Waveland. They have six children, Lindsey 18, Chaz 15, Chandler

Charles Piazza

11, Courtland "10," and twins MaConnelly and MaKenzie, age 7.

Piazza is the son of Shirley Turcotte Piazza and the late C. J. Piazza. He and his family are members of St. Clare Catholic Church, where he is active in the Parent Teacher Organization. He is also a member of the Waveland Little League.

Drug arrests reported

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Multi-Area Drug Task Force Director Shane Corr reports several recent drug-related arrests.

Corr said, "Charles Paul Lewis, 38, 23170 Mitchell Road, Leetown community, was arrested Friday and charged with one count for the sale of a controlled substance, cocaine, from his residence to an undercover agent. His bond was set at $5,000."

"Alicia L. Nunn, 31, 4280 Mediterranean St., Bay St. Louis, was arrested Aug. 18 and charged with possession of one rock of crack cocaine. Her bond for the simple possession was $2,500. Nunn was also charged by Waveland Police with speeding and DUI," Corr added.

Nunn was stopped by Waveland Officer Howard Parker for speeding, and a search of the vehicle revealed one rock of crack cocaine, Corr said.

Laura Jean Paquet, 37, 4181 2nd St., Shoreline Park, was charged with prescription forgery, Corr reported, adding she was trying to purchase Lorcet Plus with a forged prescription at a Waveland drug store. Her bond was set at $5,000.

On Thursday, Bay St. Louis Patrolmen Martin Holloway and Matt Carver responded to a 911 hang up call. They observed marijuana and cocaine inside the residence, Corr said.

Arrested and charged with possession of crack cocaine, with bond set at $2,500 each were: Tony Olander Coles, 21, 418 Sycamore St., Bay St. Louis; and Brandon Laneaux, 20, 198 Auderer Lane, Waveland, Corr said.

Drug Task Force Officer Tommy Jennings is in charge of the cases, Corr added.

Pass neighbors feud over fence

BY ED LEPOMA

Fences might make good neighbors, but one erected in Pass Christian's Historic District has some aldermen straddling the proverbial fence.

A brewing feud between neighbors living side by side on the city's Scenic Drive came to light last week when the Board of Aldermen was asked to rule against the city's Historic Preservation Commission.

That Commission met July 8, and ruled that Mrs. Audrey Bailey, who lives at 829 E. Scenic Drive, must take down a chain link fence she had erected on the north portion of her property facing Second Street, and on the west facing the residence of Barbara Thompson at 811 Scenic Drive.

Most members of the Historic Commission visited the property before the July 8 meeting, then voted 6-0 to deny Bailey's application to allow the fence.

The Commission said the wording of the city's Preservation ordinance was "unequivocal." The guidelines in that ordinance says, "Chain link fences, barbed wire, concrete block, stockade, plywood, hardwood or asbestos board and electrified fences are prohibited."

At last Tuesday night's recess meeting, Gulfport attorney John Rice represented Mrs. Bailey, and said she was acting to provide greater security around her nine-acre compound, and has already spent $13,400 on the chain link fence.

But, he offered a compromise that would provide a vinyl coating that hides the fencing, and allows vegetation to grow and further camouflage the area.

Mrs. Thompson was represented by Gulfport attorney Virgil Gillespie, who praised the beauty of the homes along Scenic Drive. "There's nothing like it on the whole Gulf Coast. Let's keep it the way you intended to keep it when you passed this ordinance," said Gillespie.

Ward 2 Alderman Margaret Jean Kalif did not attend Tuesday night's meeting, but Aldermen-at-Large Leo "Chipper" McDermott sought to push the issue to a vote and grant a variance to Mrs. Bailey.

He said he made a "door-to-door survey," and cited several addresses where there are chain link fences within the city's Historic District. "I'm ready to vote," McDermott said.

But, Preservation Commission members Otis Trepagnier said some of those fences were there before the preservation ordinance was passed in 1989, and thus were "grandfathered in." He said the Commission's responsibility is to enforce the ordinance as written, unless the city's governing authority amends it.

Ward 3 Alderman Michael Antoine also pushed for a favorable vote, saying, "A decision should be made and made tonight." He said Mrs. Bailey had already gone through considerable expense, and the controversy has caused her a lot of stress.

McDermott made the motion to approve, and Antoine seconded that motion, but the two other aldermen had other thoughts in mind.

Ward 1 Alderman Jeff Emerson said he was a great supporter of the Preservation Commission, and, "It's going to take an awful lot for me to overrule them." Referring to Kalif's absence, Emerson said he'd like the entire Board of Aldermen to vote on the matter.

And, Ward 4 Alderman Vonn Bodenschatz said she don't have "a reputation of overruling the Preservation Commission."

The vote on Emerson's motion to allow the variance split 2-2, and Mayor Billy McDonald cast the deciding vote, siding with Emerson and Bodenschatz against approval.

Emerson then made a motion to have Mrs. Bailey reapply to the Preservation Commission, with the compromise request to use the vinyl siding along the chain link fence. That motion also split 2-2, and McDonald again broke the tie, again siding with Emerson and Bodenschatz.

If the Preservation Commission approves the compromise at next month's meeting, the matter must still come back before the Board of Aldermen.

In other developments Tuesday night, Aldermen voted to raise monthly residential garbage pickup charges from the current $11.50 to $12.75 per month. McDonald said the hike was necessary to pay the city's share of costs apportioned the cities by the South Mississippi Solid Waste Management District, which contracts with Browning Ferris Industries for garbage collection service.

Aldermen also upheld a Planning Commission recommendation that will allow the closed Stuffed Shirt Factory at Scenic and Market Street to be converted into a temporary climate-controlled miniwarehouse/storage facility.

McDonald said plans down the line call for a part of the building to be renovated for retail use, and future condominiums developed over what is now the parking lot area on West Scenic Drive. Developers plan to use New Orleans style architecture, maintaining the city's historic charm, he said.

The labor pain no one talks about.

Performing the same task over and over everyday can put unnecessary strain on almost every part of your body. Your arms, shoulders, neck, and back can all be affected by constant repetitive motion. If you work a 9 to 5 job and are experiencing pain, talk to someone who can help. Because the pain you experience from labor, is the pain no one else wants to hear about.

Chiropractic... relief for labor pain.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The big, and I can say big, Hancock County Business and Industry Expo, which will be the first I know of to be sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, is set for Thursday, August 27, 3 to 7 p.m. at the Waveland Holiday Inn.

Some 36, yes that is 36, exhibitors plan to take part in the Business and Industry Expo.

Raymos McMillon, chairman of the chamber's member services and his committee have been very busy coordinating this big Business & Industry Expo.

There will be a $2 admission for the general public. There will also be free food, door prizes, a grand prize and a cash bar.

The exhibitors cover a wide range of businesses from the area, and it is hoped there will be a large turnout of the general public.

Remember, the expo will be held at the Waveland Holiday Inn at the intersection of Highways 90 and 603, Waveland.

I hope to see you there Thursday afternoon.

R.B. Peterson, commander of the Theodore Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253, while doing some research on the post's name sake, found some interesting articles in old copies of The Sea Coast Echo.

In a February 22, 1931, issue of The Echo there was a story on page 1, reporting St. Stanislaus as being the first prep school to put on a boxing contest on the Coast.

The story says, "With the exhibition of boxing promised for Tuesday night, February 24, St. Stanislaus ushers in the sport to the Coast fans. The Rock-A-Chaws will be the first of the Coast Prep Schools to take on the sport.

"We are anticipating some keen competition from Louisiana schools this season and even from some of the east Texas schools," the story added.

It is interesting that among those vying to make the team from St. Stanislaus, included the late Sam Ballard, who was the publisher of The Sea Coast Echo when I came on staff in June, 1957.

In my early years at St. Stanislaus, boxing was one of the most competitive sports there, as well as Bay High. Between the two schools they shared the majority of championships for many years in the state of Mississippi.

The Stanislaus and Bay High gyms would overflow with fans for boxing matches.

Many of us hated to see the end of high school boxing matches around the end of the 1940s.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

President Clinton is not the only guilty party

Dear Editor:

Why hasn't anything been said about that shameless woman who claims she had sex with our President Bill Clinton, who is a married man?

Is Monica Lewinsky so sweet and innocent that only the man is the guilty party? Couldn't she have said NO?

Dear sweet Hillary, our First Lady, got a rolling pin? You can borrow mine, and we ladies will help you put that brazen woman in her place.

She has disgraced a fine family with the help of the President.

Would any of you married men admit that you had sex with a woman other than your wife, especially to the whole world?

Hey, Lewinsky and Starr, are you going to write a book and become millionaires?

Thank you,
Doris B. Pittman

Senate approves funeral amendment

The Senate approved an amendment requiring the Defense Department to work with the VA and veterans service organizations on reinstating military honors at veterans' burials.

The amendment to the Defense Department authorization bill for fiscal year 1999 requires the Defense Department to report to Congress within 180 days its recommendations on how to restore full burial rites.

The Pentagon must hold a national conference on burial honors with the VA and veterans organizations by Oct. 31.

Similar legislation has been introduced in the House.

The measure was introduced in March by Sens. Frank Murkowski (R-Ark.), Paul Sarbanes (D-Md.) and Patty Murray (D-Wash.), who last year won approval of a bill allowing the National Guard to perform honor guard duties.

Veterans organizations currently try to provide honor guards on request, but according to Murray, they are "not always able to meet the demand. Each month, 36,000 World War II veterans pass away, and the death rate among veterans continues to rise."

The amendment would ensure that the military, on a family's request, provide a five-member burial detail, including a bugler to play "Taps" for any veteran who served honorably.

Sarbanes said an increasing number of families requesting full burial honors "are instead receiving a taped rendition of taps and folded flag presented by a lone serviceman or woman. The Department of Defense has cited budgetary constraints."

"These honors are an obligation that our veterans and their families have come to expect," said Sarbanes, calling the amendment "a step forward."

FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Real people want real answers

While around Mississippi recently I noticed a distinct change in public concerns. From the folks at the Neshoba County Fair to the bustling Gulf Coast, the usual questions about education, jobs and highways have subsided amid concerns about the investigation of President Clinton, our military's preparedness and health care. Mississippians are real people who want real answers to these questions. We deserve better than what we are hearing from this administration.

From dedication ceremonies for new air traffic control simulators at Keesler Air Force Base, and a new Coast Guard Station at Pascagoula to dinners with the Retired Officers Association and the Gulf Coast Board of Realtors, the foremost question people asked me was how President Clinton's current troubles will impact our nation.

They are concerned that our President may have made some very unrepresentative choices, and they fear that as a result he is detached from his duties as Chief Executive.

No one really knows how these allegations will impact our nation or the presidency, but it obviously will not be positive. As we in the Senate move forward with our busy legislative agenda, the White House is preoccupied with the Presidential allegations and the strategy it has adopted to counter them throughout this long process.

President Clinton's arsenal of "advisors," which includes a Hollywood producer, now seem only capable of verbally smearing the independent counsel. Meanwhile they have picked hopeless, costly legal battles which have all been rejected by the court.

Unfortunately this has succeeded in delaying this unpopular process in an apparent effort to turn the American people completely against this legitimate inquiry. But Mississippians are not buying it.

They know this is not a partisan plot to destroy this administration. Most Mississippians, including myself, want this over as soon as possible, but our thirst for closure will not be quenched by a sour brew of Hollywood-style spin. Mississippians want real truth, and our nation deserves it.

Mississippians, especially those in our military communities, also sense that our national defense is being neglected. While we have passed legislation which provides for a number of quality-of-life improvements at our military bases, we still face disturbing downward trends in military recruitment and readiness.

These trends directly impact communities in Mississippi with military installations like Biloxi, Pascagoula, Meridian, Columbus and Hattiesburg.

Many people in these communities have told me how our nation's defenses are weakening. I wrote President Clinton asking that he consider increasing funding for our military, but in response he basically insisted that everything is OK. Here too, Mississippians are not buying the administration's line.

Mississippians understand the costs associated with conflict, and the greater costs associated with being unprepared. I will continue to seek enhancements for our military readiness, and I will oppose those who seek even further reductions.

Finally many Mississippians told me they want real health care reform, but they recognize that simply making it easier for patients to sue health management organizations (HMOs), as Senator Ted Kennedy proposes, is no real answer.

While some are elated with Kennedy's version of the Patient Bill of Rights, the folks I talked to recognize that Kennedy's plan is not a good prescription for the individual patient.

An alternative Patients Bill of Rights, which I support would allow patients to have sensible appeals to HMO decisions, as well as access to medical records, the right to easy-to-understand information about their health plans, an open communication link to their physicians and expanded health insurance choices.

The investigation of the President, military readiness and health care reform, three very different issues, but each deserves a real answer.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

"About how many bullet holes did you find in our roofs?" I inquired as the roofer completed his up-and-down routine.

"Well, there were 18 holes in the Governor Nicholls side of the hall roof," Richie Williams advised me. "When we got over to the church, we found seven holes in that roof. You know how the neighborhood kids like to shoot."

For months, I had had dread, exaggerated visions of gaping holes in our roofs on one side of the rectory and on one side of the church. On a number of occasions, we had to use a bucket or even a dishpan to catch the bounteous rain.

Now, suddenly and gratefully, we discovered that our worst fears were ill-founded and exaggerated. Isn't this a familiar scenario how we make mountains out of mole hills? How do you spell relief? In this case, bullet instead of cannon holes.

Not that we're happy about the bullet holes. It's a sad state of affairs when one of the main legacies of New Year's Eve and July 4 are multiple bullet holes in roofs around the city. One church with a copper roof had 14 bullet holes.

It is sadder still to say what a blessing it is to have bullet holes in our roofs and not in the top of our heads.

Unfortunately, some people pierced by falling bullets around the country cannot count this among their blessings.

"For every action, there is a proportionate reaction," is a law of physics which I experienced long before studying it in college. It was a matter of trying to leap from a skiff to a pier. Needless to say, I was fortunate to keep my teeth.

Try as we may, we never succeed in putting the lie to this simple physical law. Yet, we attempt time and again either through carelessness or stubbornness to go counter to what we know will eventually boomerang or blow up in our faces.

In rebellion against the universal law of motion, we want the freedom of action without the responsibility of reaction. It would be a truly fun thing for many to be able to fire into the air at random with no fear of falling, lethal bullets.

It is most curious that this physical law, though not intended that way, has strong applications in our world of thoughts, words, emotions and acts. Simply put, whether we will it or not, all these are tightly joined to each other.

"What goes up must come down," can have some companions such as, "What goes out must come back," which would be a variation of the time-honored dictum, "What goes around comes around," or, "Turnabout is fair play."

These axioms evolve into, "You can't have your cake and eat it too," or, "You can't have it both ways." In other words, everything, whether words or actions, has consequences. We know better; yet, we want the consequences our way.

Our great, unbelievably good fortune in all this is that the law of reaction is a two-edged sword: On the one hand, we are distressed that our curses, put-downs and bitter criticism have a terrible, deadly chain reaction on everyone.

On the other, we are delighted to know that our words and actions of blessing and affirmation create an exciting, positive, spiritually uplifting chain reaction which never stops. With God's help, we can share the joie de vivre with all.

The best formulation of the law of gravity is found in the old gospel song: "When praises go up, blessings come down."

Book on Kiln released

"Kiln Country" is Dan Ellis' newest addition in his history book series of Mississippi Gulf Coast communities.

This is Ellis' third chronicle displaying the past and present heritage of Hancock County and is filled with rich photographs depicting the early growth of the Kiln and the surrounding piney wood communities.

Ellis draws on his former teaching experiences by categorizing the book into 10 main sections, each rich with his skillful style of storytelling.

The book includes the Kiln's early development, the years of timber mills, the tar kilns, the moonshiners and, of course, Brett Favre and other favorite athletes.

He includes archival and current maps, complete with an up-to-date tour of the Kiln.

The inviting cover of "Kiln Country" shows the famed 1980's crossroad entertainment spots of Glass' Place (the KnowShed) and Melva's Place.

The book may be purchased for $19 from Bookends, and at the Kiln from Rooster's Restaurant, the Broke Spoke, D&K and Dolly's.

Tech-Prep at Bay High

Bay High School is busy educating and preparing today's students for tomorrow's jobs.

Our professionals at Bay High are limited to their knowledge of what is required to succeed after formal education is completed.

"We wish to tap the immense knowledge and experience of our communities' parents, professionals and journeymen," said Bay High's Douglas Farmer.

Anyone who desired to share their job knowledge and experience is urged to call Bay High and request to speak to the Tech-Prep counselor or Career Center Technician.

Parents of Bay High students are always welcome to discuss their child's progress.

Hope Haven 'strikes gold'

Hope Haven, the local shelter for abused and neglected children, has received its registration number for the Jitney Jungle 'Gold Card Program.'

The program allows users of the Jitney Gold Card to designate a charity of their choice for the 2 percent of each purchase shoppers make.

"We urge everyone who shops at Jitney to designate Hope Haven if they have not already chosen another charity. The number is 98765-03062."

"Jitney is a good corporate neighbor to run this program," commented Terry Latham, shelter director. "I hope they continue to offer programs like this."

Hints for kids in BASSMASTERS casting, pitching, flipping, contest

BY BLIS C. CUEVAS
The Hancock County BASSMASTERS will sponsor their second BASSMASTER Casting Kids Competition Sat. and Sun., Sept. 5-6, and some tips on the competition are offered by Raymond A. Cuevas, Committee chairman.

The competition will give youths ages 7-10 and 11-14 an opportunity to test their casting, pitching and flipping skills, birth dates are based on Aug. 31, 1999. The event is free and open to the public.

The BASSMASTER Casting-Kids Competition will be held in conjunction with the Waveland Civic Association's annual Kids Fishing Rodeo, Festival and Fireworks Display, to be held over the Labor Day weekend in Waveland.

The BASSMASTER Casting-Kids Competition will be at the Coleman Avenue soccer field, located at the corner of Coleman and Central avenues, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and also 3 to 6 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday.

Cuevas said, "Practice makes a winner!"

A few helpful tips offered by BASSMASTERS Casting Kids contest in the competition include:

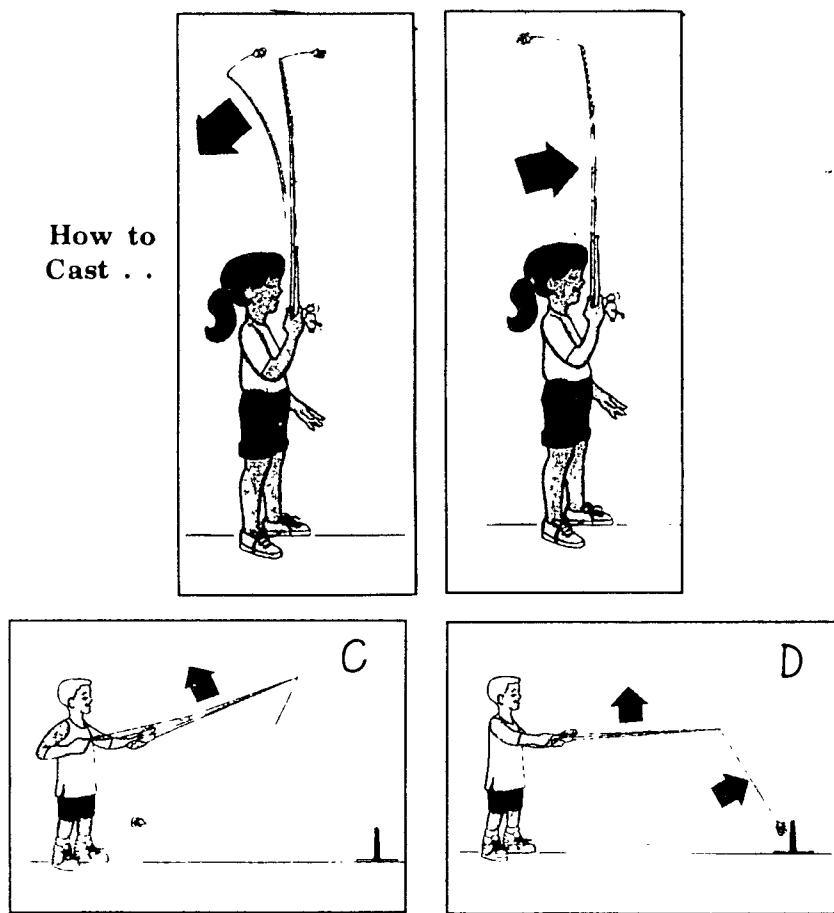

How to cast — Imagine that the arm holding your rod and reel is the hand of a clock. To cast, bend your elbow so that your rod points to 12 o'clock.

Snap the rod forward using your wrist as you straighten your elbow. Then use your wrist to snap your rod back to 10 o'clock. Snap the rod forward using your wrist as you straighten your elbow. When the rod is pointing 1 or 2 o'clock, release your line.

If your lure goes high into the air without going forward you are releasing your line too soon. If your lure goes low and not very far, then you are releasing your line too late. In competition, your casting target will be 30 feet away.

How to flip — Let your line out about 10 feet from the rod tip and engage the reel. With your free hand, grab the line guides by straightening your arm out to the side.

At the same time raise the tip of the rod. The lure should start to swing back toward you. When the lure swings back to your body, lower the rod to make the lure swing forward. Quickly raise the rod tip again to use your hand to feed the line back through the rod guides. The lure should touch down softly in the target area, which will be 10 feet away.

How to Cast . .

How to Flip . . .

How to pitch — First let out the line until the lure can reach the reel. Hold the lure with your free hand level with your waist. Lower the rod tip and pull the line tight.

Quickly swing the rod tip forward and up toward the target and let go of the lure with your free hand. As the lure passes underneath the tip of the rod, release the line and continue to raise the tip of the rod. The lure should then fly just above the target and touch down softly 20 ft away.

The kids will be judged on their casting, pitching and flipping skills. Those who make the national finals will compete against kids their own age for $20,000 in scholarships and prizes, said Cuevas, the Hancock County BASSMASTERS competition chairman.

Each competitor will receive a free BASSMASTER Casting-Kids Certificate of Competition and a copy of the program's official publication, BASSMASTER Casting Kids Magazine. Winners at the local level also receive a medalion and a Zebco rod and reel.

MSU professor to assist Solid Waste Authority

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County's Regional Solid Waste Authority has voted to hire a Mississippi university professor to take a look at two proposals on the table by firms interested in developing and operating a combination rubbish site/landfill.

The six-member Authority voted Wednesday to pay $2,500 for someone to look over both plans, which were submitted last June by Hancock County resident Curtis Johnson, President of Magnolia Disposal Services, Inc., and Bennett York and daughter, Paige York-Losee of Hattiesburg, proposing to do business here as Hancock Waste of Mississippi.

The person selected was Dr. Dennis D. Traux, an assistant professor of Civil Engineering, and a technical assistance specialist at Mississippi State University.

Developers were told at the meeting Wednesday that Dr. Traux would review "all aspects" of the proposals submitted by the two firms, including the geophysical requirements and tests that have already been done and the economic incentives offered to the county by the developers.

Although it voted to spend another $2,500, the Authority also voted to delay paying a portion of the monthly charges submitted by U.S.A. Waste, which picks up household garbage and also operates a new county rubbish site off Hwy. 43.

Authority Administrator Dina Hitt reported the Authority was a little more than $35,000 short of funds needed to pay current bills, but she pointed out there was some discrepancy in the bill submitted by U.S.A. Waste.

The mixup was due to that firm's expenses incurred by the closure of the old rubbish site at Standard, and Hitt said a new bill would be submitted by U.S.A. Waste.

Authority members explained the shortfall was not necessarily due to delinquencies caused by residents who are not paying their monthly garbage charges, but primarily was caused by extra expenses incurred when the Standard landfill was downgraded from a Class I to a Class II rubbish site.

When that happened, the Authority was being billed between $12,000 and $15,000 a month extra because the Class I rubbish had to be sorted at Standard, then transported to a landfill that could accept it.

A good portion of the beginning of the meeting was taken up by complaints from three Kiln residents who have been waiting for months for approval to open up rubbish sites in close proximity to each other off the Kiln-Picayune Road.

Kevin Hass, Prince Ladner and Charles Henley are complaining they are losing money because they have to haul tree stumps and other debris outside the county. They said the new rubbish site is too expensive for commercial dumpers.

Opening the rubbish sites requires amending the county's 20-year Solid Waste Plan and approval by the state Department of Environmental Quality.

Authority Chairman Rocky Pullman said it was his feeling that a majority of the members wanted to accommodate the three developers, but the hold-up was due to the fact that adjoining counties had to be notified, in the event they objected.

That 30-day notification expires at the end of this month, and Pullman asked Authority members to give some indication of how they might vote on the rubbish sites once they get DEQ approval.

Five members voted that they would amend the solid waste plan to allow the sites, but Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre voted against. Favre said he was concerned that the sites would be operated as commercial ventures, and he wondered how the Authority could deny future requests for other sites throughout the county.

"I don't have a problem for personal use, but I do commercial," said Favre. "Once you start doing it for one, how can you not do it for others." Henley told Commissioners he planned three rubbish sites, but he did not plan to open all of them at once.

Hancock-Harrison solid waste join-up possible

BY ED LEPOMA

More substantial talks are planned soon after Harrison County officials expressed renewed interest this week in a landfill that might be located in the buffer zone surrounding the Stennis Space Center in Hancock County.

District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman, who chairs Hancock's Regional Solid Waste Authority, made a brief presentation Thursday to Harrison's Solid Waste and Wastewater District.

The initial reaction was favorable, according to Pass Christian Mayor Billy McDonald, who took over Aug. 1 as chairman of Harrison's District.

"The big thing to us is price," said McDonald. "We want to get the best deal we can get for the people of Harrison County." Harrison County now generates about 350 tons of household garbage per day and pays a little over $16 a ton to dispose of it.

McDonald said the Hancock presentation was one of five under consideration by Harrison, and there is a lot of homework to be done before any decision is made.

"We want to look at all our options," said McDonald. "I'd call this initial meeting (with Hancock) a get-acquainted session. Obviously, we will meet again when more details emerge."

Harrison County Supervisor David LaRosa also reacted favorably to the Hancock plan. He has been campaigning for months for a county-owned landfill in the northwest corner of Harrison, near the Stone County line.

But, LaRosa said, "I'd like to see whether Harrison County and Hancock County could jointly own it."

That might prove to be a sticking point in any future negotiations, since proposals being entertained by the Hancock County Authority proposes privately-owned and operated landfills. And, McDonald is on record saying he wants the county to stay out of the garbage business.

Gulfport's Mayor Bob Short was also among Harrison representatives that seemed to favor a joint venture.

He said he thought Hancock County, "was the ideal place to go."

"I'd like to see the dump out of Harrison County," he added.

Waveland's officials discuss new budget

BY BETSY GAGNET

Budget discussions went into full swing in Waveland Friday afternoon at the city's budget workshop meeting.

City Secretary Lisa Planchard had reported earlier in the week that cuts in the range of $250,000 plus would have to be made in order to maintain adequate cash reserves.

That figure was based on budget requests submitted by each department head to city hall. On Friday, the department heads met with the mayor and the board to discuss possible cuts in the requests.

The meeting was interrupted several times by exchanges between Alderman Jay Fleuret and Mayor John Mason. Mason cautioned Fleuret that the purpose of the meeting was to speak with department heads concerning their budget requests. Fleuret, who asked several times about the city's general obligation bond funds and the civic center, maintained that he was asking hard questions.

The board reviewed each department's requests with the department head, asking questions about several requested allocations.

The police department has put in a request for a new officer. Requests have also been made for two new patrol cars and a K-9 vehicle.

In the fire department a request has been made for the addition of one firefighter. Assistant Fire Chief Steve Garber said that no new positions have been added since 1990 while calls have significantly increased. Garber confirmed after the meeting that calls have increased from 372 in 1992 to 649 in 1997.

In the public works department, Director Ray Eaton, who came on board in June, presented his first budget request to the city.

Eaton began his discussions with some good news, informing the board that expenses for the building inspector's vehicle and funds allocated for a tandem dump truck could be cut.

The building inspector has been allocated the vehicle previously used by the Public Works Director, and Eaton will use his own vehicle. The tandem dump truck was recently purchased and expenses allocated for that purchase could therefore be eliminated.

After speaking with the department heads, the board went into executive session to discuss personnel matters.

The aldermen will now submit suggestions on the preliminary budget to the mayor's office.

A public hearing to approve the budget is scheduled for September 3.

Estate planning under the new tax law

None of us can change the fact that we won't live forever — but we can control some things that happen beyond our time on earth. One way is with estate planning, which means deciding what will happen to your wealth after you die. You can draft a proper estate plan with help from your financial adviser, attorney and accountant.

Whether you already have an estate plan or are considering creating one, you should know that last year's Taxpayer Relief Act contains more than 40 provisions directly affecting estates. Following are nine key areas the financial newsletter Bottom Line says you should cover with a specialist who's knowledgeable about the new law.

1. Your current will. An up-to-date will is now even more important for larger estates, because the current $600,000 estate tax exemption begins rising each year until it reaches $1 million in 2006. Your will should express this amount in terms of a formula that will entitle your estate to the full tax-exempt limit in effect at the time of your death.

2. Other important documents. Insurance and insurance trusts are just two examples of legal documents that may need updating due to the new tax law.

3. Gifts to reduce estate size. If your portfolio is larger than you will need for your lifetime, you might consider giving assets to family members now to reduce the impact of estate taxes after your death.

4. Charitable remainder trusts. Because of new requirements, it's important for you to conduct a thorough review with an expert in this field before deciding if charitable remainder trusts are appropriate for your estate.

5. Life insurance. Once you consider how the new tax laws will affect your estate, you may decide you need more or less life insurance to cover estate taxes.

6. Regular IRA vs. Roth IRA. The Roth IRA offers some estate-planning advantages such as undisturbed assets that can be passed to heirs free of income tax if you don't need them in your lifetime. There are benefits and disadvantages to both types of IRAs, depending on your needs and situation. Completely understand your options and any penalties before you act.

7. Selling your residence. The new law offers a generous exemption from capital gains tax on the sale of a principal residence. This could make it more advantageous for you to sell your home now, rather than leaving it to heirs. If you'd like a smaller home or condo, look into this new tax provision.

8. Selling other appreciated assets. The new, more liberal 20 percent long-term capital gains tax for most taxpayers may make it more attractive for you to sell securities and other appreciated assets rather than holding on to them for heirs.

9. Change in business ownership. Some small or family-owned businesses could benefit from the new provisions. It may be worth discussing with your attorney.

Make a small investment of your time today to learn how these provisions could affect your estate. Chances are, changes in your estate plan are warranted, but these changes will benefit you and your heirs, and ensure that your wishes are carried out.

Magic — merger depends on stockholders vote

Harcourt, Louisiana. The Hollywood, California-based Hollywood Park also owns two card club casinos in the Los Angeles area.

Although the merger would put Casino Magic under Hollywood's corporate umbrella, the proposal makes arrangements to keep the key corporate player from Casino Magic in the picture.

Marlin Torguson, the original Casino Magic developer and its chairman of the board, has agreed to sell his 7.6 million shares of common stock to Hollywood, and to vote in favor of the merger. He would continue to serve as an employee of the company for three years after the merger.

Also, Hollywood Park has agreed to appoint Torguson to the board of directors, and to issue him 20,000 shares of Hollywood stock annually, along with a $300,000 annual salary.

In addition, Hollywood has promised to give Torguson options to buy 30,000 shares of Hollywood's stock.

Torguson was president and chief executive officer of the Casino Magic firm from April 1992 through November 1994, for a while also serving as chief financial officer and treasurer.

Other members of the board include James E. Ernst, president and chief executive officer, Roger H. Frommelt, E. Thomas Welch.

The merger plan promises to provide Casino Magic's employees with substantially equivalent benefits in place at the time of the merger's effectiveness, for at least a year.

And Hollywood Park has agreed to require Casino Magic "to continue to employ certain specified managerial employees of the company during the six month period following the merger's effective date. If such an employee is fired before then, without cause, the employee's salary would be paid for six months."

Exploration of merger possibilities began in Feb. 1997, when Casino Magic announced it had hired the investment banking firm of Wasserstein Perella & Co., Inc.

The firm was to give company officials strategies aimed at increasing shareholder value, including a consolidation, sale or merger. Hollywood and Grand Casinos, Inc., both signed confidentiality agreements with Wasserstein to get information on the company's affairs.

Negotiations with both prospects began, but didn't materialize in a firm offer and, in October, Casino Magic notified Wasserstein it was discontinuing its exploration of "strategic alternatives, in order to focus management's attention on operations," according to Casino Magic's proxy statement.

Grand Casinos later reentered the picture, however, and by January gave Casino Magic a proposal to exchange stock: One share of Grand for every 10 shares of Casino Magic, in a merger transaction.

Later that same month, Hollywood Park made a counter offer, and corporate consideration of the possibilities went into high gear. By mid-February 1998, Grand and Hollywood both had submitted formal proposals. Grand offering $2.25 per share and Hollywood offering $2.27. Casino Magic accepted Hollywood Park's merger proposal and executed a merger agreement.

Casino Magic's outline to shareholders of the reasons for any merger included concern over increased competition, the need for more capital to enhance their existing properties, and the company's lack of earnings over a four year period through 1997, the market price of the company's common stock, and management's projections for earnings in 1998. Ironically, those earnings so far this year have exceeded projections. Still, the board of directors is recommending that the merger proceed.

Officials emphasize that increased competition which has occurred -- and more which is likely -- is a key in their merger logic.

With the opening of the Imperial Palace Casino in 1997, Casino Magic's Biloxi facility wasn't impacted. But the full impact of competition from that casino won't be known until Imperial Palace has opened all of its 1,088 hotel rooms and established its own customer base.

Casino Magic also notes that Grand Casinos has added a 500-room hotel and convention center in Biloxi, and recently broke ground on a 500-room hotel in Gulfport. Beau Rivage Casino is expected to open its $650 million facility in Biloxi in early 1999.

Meanwhile, in Bay St. Louis, Circus Circus and Europa Cruises Corp. have announced plans for casino developments on the north side of the Bay of St. Louis. Both would have easier access from Interstate 10 than the local Casino Magic, potentially tapping New Orleans customers.

Other new casino developments worry Casino Magic officials in Bossier City.

To remain competitive, Casino Magic officials say it needs to make a tremendous investment at its Bay St. Louis property, including a 1,500-room luxury hotel that has been planned since the inception of the local facility.

Aside from a Bay St. Louis hotel, Casino Magic also would like to place a new casino at its site, expand the golf course, add tennis courts, stables, a full service marina and other amenities locally.

The Bay St. Louis hotel plan was deferred while the company built hotels in Biloxi and Bossier City, sought other development possibilities, and built a golf course in Bay St. Louis.

But Casino Magic's cash flow isn't projected to be enough to fund any substantial part of the improvements company officials now want to put in place in Bay St. Louis.

And the company is hampered in borrowing more money, in light of its existing debt and debt-related agreements, officials say.

"Furthermore, the company's ability to raise additional equity capital is constrained by the low market price of the company's common stock, lack of prior earnings and a general lack of market demand and interest in the company's common stock and in the gaming sector."

Reef — helps fishing

Chris had me call Bill Brown with the Gulf Fishing Banks Project," said Longo. "It was a good opportunity for the city."

As the deposited material "fouls up", bait fish build habitats in the rubble attracting bigger fish which circle around the reef, said Longo, explaining his understanding of the mechanics of the reef.

Material for the reef came from a Tarmac at the Air National Guard base in Gulfport which was torn up four years ago, said LaGarde.

"We felt like there was no sense in letting the contractor haul it away," he said. Material from the Tarmac has also been used in beachfront projects in areas near St. Stanislaus and Bay View Court.

The reef project was coordinated through the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources, said LaGarde, explaining that the location of the reef had to be permitted.

"We've talked to agencies involved in permitting for years and finally convinced them that these projects are beneficial," said LaGarde. "(The projects) increase habitat which increases species diversity. It just makes more fish available."

Taylor's office coordinated the efforts of the Air National Guard, Ms. Gulf Fishing Banks Project, and the City of Waveland, said LaGarde.

Longo said the city was able to provide a lot of needed information such as water depth and average tides which had been gathered during the construction of the pier.

He praised the work of the non-profit Mississippi Gulf Fishing Banks Project, saying its projects enhance the environment as well as serve the community by making fishing accessible to more people.

engineer, Duke Levy, said Colom's combined bid was still below the $1.8 million he estimated on the project and will leave the District with some money remaining to extend sewerage to more areas of Shoreline Park.

Initially, the District planned to hook up 520 more homes in that portion of the waterfront subdivision that sits on the east side of Hwy. 603. Now, Gauthreaux estimates 100 additional houses might be connected, maybe more.

Levy said he wants to "get through with this phase of the project, then see what we have left over." He said construction is expected to take eight months, providing the weather cooperates.

The District is using a $1.5 million loan from the U.S. Agriculture Department's Rural Development Administration and a low-interest loan of $558,600 to fund the project. It has also applied for $2 million in RDA funds to provide the water system to the area.

A map that accompanies this story shows the general area where the sewerage extensions are planned, along with the names of the streets.

Lights, Camera, Action

A normal Saturday at Stennis International Airport was anything but normal last Saturday.

Blue Light Inc., came to town to shoot a two-minute scene for an upcoming movie based on the landmark, nationwide tobacco legislation, and turned the sleepy airport off Hwy. 603 into a beehive of activity.

Port and Harbor Executive Director Hal Walters and deputy director Bill Stovall were on hand, and invited the Echo out to record the day's filming.

The moving vans began arriving early Saturday, and a Hancock County deputy was on guard at the airport to turn away the curious and allow only invited guests. The vans carried massive floodlights, sun filters and other lighting equipment, and cameras.

Specially equipped trailers arrived to pamper to every whim of actors and extras being used in the scene.

And, there was plenty of food, water and cold drinks for the crew of more than 100 and guests. A temporary mess hall was set up at one of the hangars at Stennis, and Rick Brainin Catering of North Hollywood provided hot and cold snacks throughout the shooting.

The skies were threatening, signaling the onslaught of a coming storm, but set-up technicians went about their tasks, seemingly oblivious to the rainstorm that was sure to come.

A sleek corporate jet was parked on the runway at Stennis, with pilots dressed in white uniforms standing at the ready. The plane would be used for a scene, in which state Attorney General Mike Moore and actor Bruce McGill would be shown arriving for a brief meeting and telephone call.

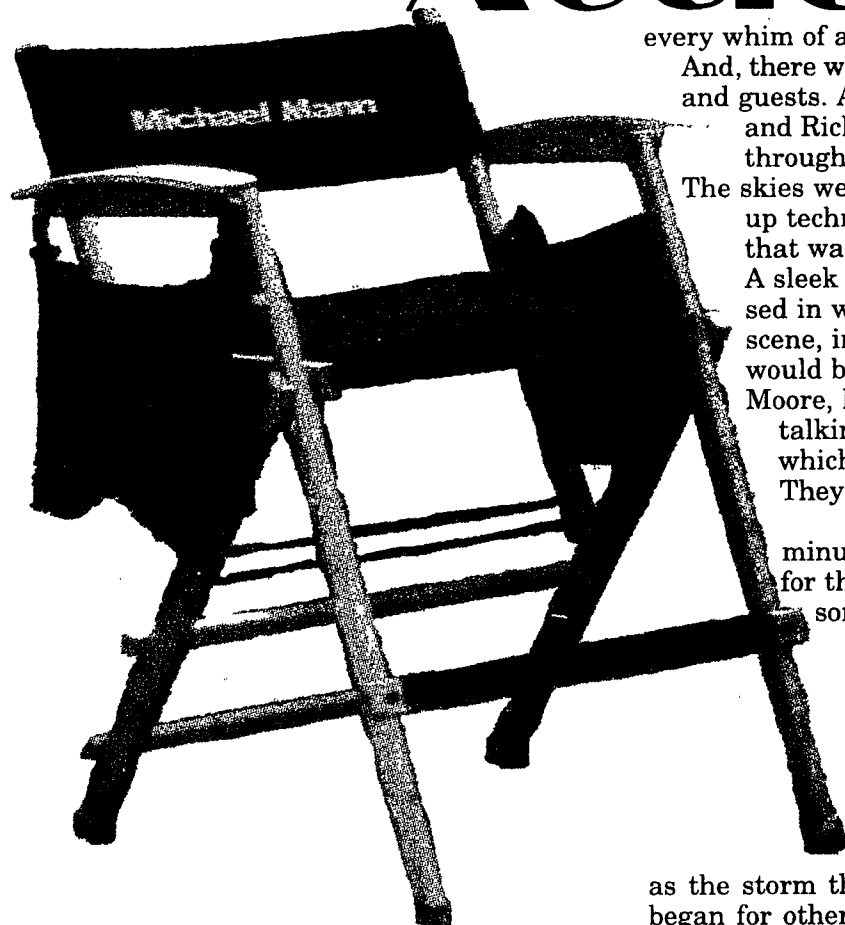

Moore, himself, arrived dressed casually, and spent the time between takes talking with the staff and camera crews. Moore plays himself in the movie, which is yet unnamed, and will star Al Pacino and Christopher Plummer. They were not in this scene, however.

The Echo was in awe over the preparations required before a two-minute shoot. Set designers selected the offices of Gene Phillips Aviation for the scene, and carpenters had to install a new door to his office and some new wall paneling before the shoot. Outside, technicians were setting up the lighting while others erected tents to protect sound and other equipment. Wardrobe assistants carrying clothes on hangers scurried back and forth from trailers to the terminal.

Finally, it seemed everything was under control, except the weather. During the first shoot of the arrival scene, the heavens opened up, and a 56-knot gust of wind blew the terminal door open, lifted panel off the ceiling of the pilots lounge, and created general chaos.

The crew was undaunted, and the shoot was over almost as quickly as the storm that had drenched the airport, cast and crew. The packing up then began for other scenes to be shot in Pascagoula, Ocean Springs and other coastal communities.

One bystander who observed the activity, parodied an old Peggy Lee song. "Is that all there is," she said, and got into her van, and left.

Local host families needed for international students

Foreign high school students are scheduled to arrive soon for academic semester and year homestays, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (PIE) Executive Director John Doty, the students are all between 15 and 18 years, are English-speaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance, and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families.

PIE currently has programs to match almost every family's needs, ranging in length from a semester to a full academic year where the students attend local high schools.

Doty encourages families to contact the program immediately, as it will allow the proper time for the students and hosts to get to know one another before they actually meet for the first time.

Bay St. Louis area families interested in learning more about student exchange or arranging for a meeting with a community representative may call PIE toll-free at 1-800-631-1818 or via the internet at <http://www.pieusa.org>.

The agency also has travel/study program opportunities available for American high school students as well as possibilities for community volunteers to assist and work with area host families, students and schools.

Remembrance service set for Diana, Princess of Wales

An interfaith Remembrance Service will be held for Diana, Princess of Wales (1961-1997) at the Anglican Chapel of Archbishop Robert Leighton (1611-1684) Sunday, Aug. 30 at 7 p.m. on the eve and vigil of the first anniversary of Diana's tragic death in Parish.

In a fitting personal tribute to Diana, the famous American "angel" artist Andy Lakey has donated one of his angel artworks to the chapel in memory of the princess. Celebrities the world over have sought to acquire such Lakey artwork, which the artist began after a near-death experience in which he tells of "angels gathering" around him and restoring him back to life.

Dubbed "Diana's Angels," the Lakey picture will be on exhibit at the chapel, where the gift will be later used to raise funds for the church's work with troubled youth and families.

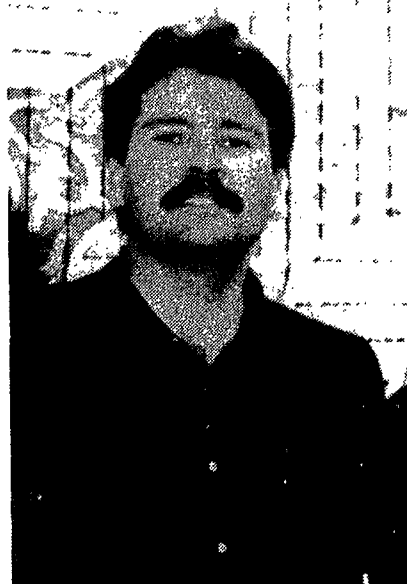

Also, an embellished wreath to the "Queen of Hearts" in red English roses will be presented to the chapel.

And those faithful to the memory of Diana are requested and welcome to bring their own floral tributes, cards, messages, and love tokens to the chapel beginning Aug. 28 through Aug. 31, 10 a.m.-10 p.m. daily at 401 South Nacaise Avenue at Union, in Bay St. Louis.

All cards, tokens, etc., will be dispatched to St. James Palace in England for Diana's two boys, Princes William and Harry care of their father Prince Charles. Messages may also be faxed directly to the palace at 011.44.930.0119 care of Sandy Henry, Buckingham Palace press aide.

Mississippi's Archbishop designate the Most Rev'd and Rt. Hon. Montgomery Griffith-Mair, the 3rd Earl of Eldritch at Antioch, will officiate at the Diana Service, which will call for "all quiet prayers" with liturgical and choral music to embrace and enhance its interfaith gathering at the chapel.

For details, contact Sharon Chin by voice or fax at 228-466-2767 or for out-of-town at 1-800-789-9518 or write to the chapel.

Roche is a life-time resident of Hancock County. She is a student at Bay High School.

After the school bell . . .

Parental involvement continues after hours

By Bonnie Coblenz
Parents with obligations during school hours can't always be visible in their child's classroom, but they can still be involved in their education.

Dr. Louise Davis, child and family development specialist with Mississippi State University's Extension Service, said many parents have limited flexibility in their schedules.

"Many parents are free to attend school-related events as they would like while others aren't able to leave the workplace," Davis said. "In some factories, jobs are threatened if a worker takes a phone call, and leaving for a school meeting can result in being fired."

Single parents often have even more constraints on their time, and many find it impossible to fit in field trips, parent-teacher meetings and classroom social events. But Davis said these parents can still be active in their child's education. It just takes a little creativity and willingness by both teacher and parent to work together.

"Talk to the teacher over the phone or write them a note to try to find a way to support them in the classroom," Davis said. "Detail why work and the family situation makes it impossible to meet the scheduled events. This lets the teacher know you're not being derelict in your duties. Offer alternative ways you can support teachers in what they are trying to accomplish that year."

Kim Baldwin teaches kindergarten at Pontotoc Elementary School. She regularly sends home project for parents to work on with their children and tries to involve parents in the classroom.

"Teaching kindergarten, I have always had a willing group of parents who gave much of their time to be involved in their child's first year of school," Baldwin said.

Because some parents' jobs prevent them from taking part in field trips, Baldwin has taken the class to visit parents at work. Other parents have brought projects or activities to her classroom that complement the material being studied in class.

Baldwin has still more ways to involve her students' parents.

"I take pictures throughout the year to put in a kindergarten memory book for each of my students. I sometimes have parents help put these in order, label them for each student and put them in book form to take home at the end of the school year," Baldwin said. "Parents who cannot come during school hours can work on these at home."

Davis said children can feel left out if the parent is not visible in class, especially if this is pointed out by classmates or the teacher. To prevent this, explain to the child just why the parent can't do things with the others, and what the parent has done for the class.

Being involved in the child's education goes way beyond the classroom, Davis said.

"Parental support is listening to your child, reviewing the classroom work, reading to the child and being involved on a daily basis," Davis said. "Parental involvement also means seeing the child is well-fed and dressed appropriately, and given a safe and nurturing home."

Teachers, too, carry some of the responsibility for parents being able to participate, especially in meetings. Davis suggested teachers be sensitive to parents' time demands and work with their schedules. Meetings should include the whole family with child care provided.

"Many times parents don't have anyone to watch the children or can't afford a babysitter," Davis said. "When teachers provide child care for meetings, more parents will actually be able to attend and will know the teacher is looking out for their needs."

Davis said if face-to-face meetings are impossible, telephone calls should be substituted. Teachers should be willing to flex their schedule to fit the parents' schedules, offering weekend meetings or even home visits as alternatives.

Teachers should also tell the parents the goals and expectations they have for the student that year, and suggest ways the parent can support them in these goals.

Arts Commission's heritage program offers support for traditional arts

A variety of grants, programs and services are being offered to community organizations as well as individuals through the Mississippi Arts Commission's Heritage Program, which supports the continuation and evolution of traditional arts and artists in the state, said Betsy Bradley, executive director.

"Mississippi is home to a variety of traditional art forms, ranging from the blues music born in the Delta to the intricately woven baskets of the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians," Bradley said.

"Countless Mississippians are active participants in the traditional arts, helping to keep alive the artistic heritage of their families and communities. In many cases the influence of these traditions has reached beyond the boundaries of the state and influenced American culture as a whole."

Organizations can receive support from the Heritage Program for a wide range of activities, including performances by traditional musicians and research projects on local crafts traditions.

Examples of projects funded through the program include musical instruction for children in Clarksdale from the Delta Blues Education Program; a traveling exhibit on the cultural traditions of the Piney Woods Region from Hattiesburg's Pine Hills Cultural Program; and numerous festivals celebrating the state's rich blues, gospel and country music traditions.

Individual artists can participate in the folk art apprenticeship and folk art fellowship programs, Bradley said. The apprenticeship program provides traditional artists the opportunity to pass on their art form by working with promising apprentices.

Master artists who have participated include fiddler Charlie Smith of Maben, blues guitarist Johnnie Billington of Lambert; and quilter Gustina Atlas of Port Gibson.

Folk art fellowships are awarded to traditional artists who demonstrate mastery of their discipline and the ability to create new work of significant value and originality.

Past recipients include master quilter Hystercine Rankin of Port Gibson, who has also received a National Heritage Fellowship.

For information about the Commission's Heritage Program contact folk arts director Larry Morrissey at (601) 359-6036.

Heat drops timber prices temporarily

By Mark Jamieson
County Forester

Many landowners were astounded by the high prices pine timber was bringing last winter, but for many their ardor is now as cool as the weather is hot since prices have fallen. Many are now wondering if the good times are really over for good.

In a word, "no."

Many forest economists regard the recent high prices as a fluke caused by a supply-demand imbalance.

The demand for wood products remained high last winter, but unusually wet weather kept loggers out of the woods. Mills were desperate for raw material to keep operating. In some cases they paid more than it was worth to avoid expensive shut-downs.

Owners of pine on high and dry sites that could be logged in wet weather found themselves in a sellers' market, and the wise ones took advantage of it.

The dry summer has enabled loggers to harvest timber nearly anywhere they wanted to and the Asian financial crises has decreased the export demand, so the supply-demand imbalance has corrected itself, and prices are down to more reasonable levels (from the buyers' standpoint). The market is taking a much-needed breather, but it will be back. The following piece in a recent Southern Forest Products Association newsletter is heartening:

"If the current wave of immigration continues, more than 10 million newcomers will enter the United States between 1991 and 2000, up significantly from the 7.3 million who came here between 1981 and 1990, and even more than the 8.2 million foreigners who came to America between 1901 and 1910," according to a prominent real estate exec.

He notes that the current wave of new Americans are buying homes at an even faster pace than their predecessors.

"It normally takes about 10 years for immigrants to accumulate the capital for a down payment, but the exec says that's now dropping to six years.

"By the year 2050, some 80 million new Americans will need 30 million dwelling units and wield an enormous chunk of purchasing power."

Many of these houses will contain a lot of building materials made from Southern Pine.

Hay farmers to assist in drought efforts

Lance Magee, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Farm Service Agency, announced a new effort to match farmers suffering from hay shortages with producers having hay surpluses.

"Some areas have surpluses, and some have severe shortages," said Magee. "This is a new and exciting way to get producers in both situations in touch with each other."

Hay Net is a national clearinghouse for producers with shortages or surpluses of hay. Farmers are encouraged to sign up and register their hay situation at the Pearl River-Hancock FSA Office.

FSA will use its nationwide computer network to share the information. Producers in need of hay will be provided with lists of the closest producers with hay to spare, and vice versa, allowing them to contact each other and make arrangements.

"I'm very pleased to be a part of this effort," said Magee. "It's a great tool for getting badly needed hay to people who need it as quickly and efficiently as possible. I encourage everybody to participate who can and to come in as soon as possible. The more people sign up, the better the system will work."

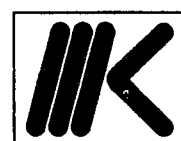

Hay Net will remain in operation for six months. Further information is available by calling (601) 795-4409 ext. 201.

Sky Parade '98 offer more convenient parking

Sky Parade officials announced more convenient parking opportunities would be provided for all Sky Parade '98 spectators.

"Every year we have tried to solve the Sky Parade parking problem. Even increasing the number of trams and buses transporting visitors from the parking areas to the main gate didn't seem to be the answer," said Robert Hardin, Sky Parade event manager.

"With new and closer parking areas located on Flowood Drive, no trams or buses will be needed. Everyone will park and proceed a short distance to the main gate, which is a few steps away from the static display," Hardin added.

Sky Parade visitors will be allowed to enter the main gate, which will be moved from the previous site on the National Weather Service road to the new entrance on Military Drive.

Visitors traveling north on Airport Road will turn left onto Military Drive taking them directly to parking areas located just past the Air National Guard.

Sky Parade guests traveling south on Airport Road will have the luxury of the protected left turn signal at the intersection of Airport Road and Flowood Drive. Additional parking facilities are provided across Flowood Drive from Military Drive as well.

Handicap parking facilities have also been improved to assist these specific spectators. The paved service road located directly around the Air National Guard base on Military Drive will be reserved for handicapped visitors and some volunteers.

"Sky Parade is a family event and should be able to be enjoyed by all families. We want to make certain that our handicapped spectators can enjoy all the excitement that Sky Parade '98 has to offer," Hardin commented.

Daily admission tickets for the Sept. 5-7 event are on sale at all Jitney Jungle stores throughout the state. Advance ticket prices are $8 for adults, $12 at the gate. Children under 12 are admitted free. Out-of-state visitors may call the Sky Parade office at 601-932-4505 for tickets or information.

Gulf Islands celebrates Founder's Day

Gulf Islands National Seashore Superintendent Jerry Eubanks announced that Founder's Day, Tuesday, Aug. 25, would be celebrated in both the Florida and Mississippi district of the Seashore.

Founder's Day will be a fee-free day for visitors entering the Fort Pickens and Perdido Key areas. The normal $6 per vehicle entrance fee will be waived.

The fee-free day only applies to entrance fee areas and does not include fees for camping, which will be charged as usual.

For frequent visitors to the Fort Pickens and Perdido Key areas an annual Gulf Islands entrance pass can be purchased for $20.

This pass allows the purchaser unlimited free entrance to these areas during a 12-month period.

The Golden Eagle Passport, which allows free entrance to most National Park areas that charge an entrance fee, is also sold at the Seashore for $50 per year. Two other permits (the Golden Age Passport issued to senior citizens for a one-time fee of $10 and the Golden Access Passport that is free for disabled persons) are also available.

Both offer 50 percent off user fees as well as free entrance to most National Park areas that charge an entrance fee.

The Mississippi District concessionaire, Ship Island Excursions, will observe Founder's Day by offering reduced tour boat fares to Ship Island for the day. Adults may go to the island for $14 instead of the regular $16 fare. Children (ages 3-10) will be admitted for $7 instead of the regular $8 fare.

Local residents are encouraged to be "a tourist for a day" and enjoy one of the area's most popular attractions.

Boats depart from Gulfport Yacht Harbor at 9 a.m. and noon. Return boats leave Ship Island at 2:30 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Passengers may return on either boat, arriving back on the mainland at 3:40 p.m. or 6:10 p.m. For detailed tour boat information, contact Ship Island Excursions at (601) 864-1014.

Gulf Islands National Seashore is now on the Fall Activities schedule. Call the Visitor Center in Florida at (850) 934-2600 to get more information on programs such as Full Moon Walks, Naval Live Oaks Walks, Birding and Fort Tours.

The Visitors Center in Mississippi at (601) 875-9057 can provide you with information on Founder's Month programs such as Marsh Walks, Seashore Art for Kids, and a special program on an African American regiment on Ship Island.

Everyone is encouraged to visit the Seashore to enjoy nature and to learn about the historical significance of the military influence on our community.

Biloxi Seafood Festival offers mix of fabulous food and fun

The 17th annual Biloxi Seafood Festival, scheduled for Sept. 18-20 at Point Cadet Plaza, will feature a delectable assortment of Biloxi's famous seafood, popular entertainment and unique, family-oriented activities for all ages to enjoy.

Festival goers will enjoy a tasteful mix of seafood prepared by local restaurants and culinary chefs.

Visitors may savor festival favorites — boiled shrimp, jambalaya, Creole dishes and gumbo prepared by local chefs competing in the "Best Gumbo Contest."

Culinary chefs will prepare an enticing assortment of seafood dishes — Caribbean shrimp wraps, crab stuffed potatoes, mini soft-shell crab poboyos, spicy seafood bisque and surf and turf kabos.

"With such an array of seafood, this year's menu surpasses anything we've had in the past," said Harry Joachim, executive director of the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce.

While Biloxi's celebrated seafood has always been a draw to the festival, a variety of continuous music and exciting family activities also contribute to the event's overwhelming popularity.

"The festival is popular because it celebrates our history and culture in ways all visitors can enjoy. Few festivals have something for everyone, but the seafood festival is a full family event good for lovers of food, arts and crafts, music, culture and fun," Joachim said.

Stephen Richer, executive director of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention and Visitors Bureau, agrees, "The festival annually attracts to our area thousands of visitors wanting to share in the celebration of one of the Coast's special traditions — fabulous seafood mixed with Southern-style fun."

The Southeast Tourism Society (STS) recently selected the Biloxi Seafood Festival as one of this year's Top 20 Events for the month of September. STS is a non-profit organization that promotes travel to and within the Southeastern states.

"Since the Tourism Society represents 10 Southeastern states, the Mississippi Gulf Coast is proud to be recognized as having one of the STS Top 20 Events," Richer said.

This year's festival, expected to draw 15,000 people, will once again offer non-stop music of all varieties, including jazz, ragga, Cajun and rock bands. In addition, two nationally recognized bands, Bad Company and Starship, will perform Friday and Saturday nights, respectively.

Children will enjoy a kids' fishing rodeo, the Seafood Olympics with cast net throwing and rod casting contest, a race car exhibit, a NASA exhibit with a mobile space shuttle and a variety of other children's activities.

"Hook," the Sea Wolves mascot, will also be on hand when the Coast's hockey team conducts a roller hockey clinic for young festival participants.

Adults will find plenty to enjoy with a volleyball tournament, a free throw basketball contest, dance contest, cash prizes, give-aways and art displays featuring artwork with seafood and marine themes.

In addition to on-site festival activities, the adjoining Maritime & Seafood Industry Museum will be open for tours and will sponsor the "Fastest Shrimp Picker Contest."

The nearby J. L. Scott Marine Education Center & Aquarium will also be open and will have special presentations throughout the weekend on sea turtles, sharks and crabs.

Admission to the festival is $5 for adults, $2 for youths 12-18 and free for children under 12.

Jewels of South America exhibit to open Sept. 5

The Jackson Zoo will unveil its newest exhibit Sept. 5 entitled "Jewels of South America."

The zoo will become home to some 24 species of amphibians, reptiles, birds, and mammals from the countries of South America and will feature a walk through bird aviary with birds flying overhead.

Some of the animals that visitors will be able to experience will be blue poison dart frogs, emerald tree boa, and cotton top tamarins. Other species in the exhibit will include the brightly-colored Pueblan milk-snake, which is known for the bright colors, which resemble those of the venomous coral snake, and dyeing poison dart frogs.

The bird aviary, which includes Chilean tinemou, the ringed teal and the silver-beaked tanager, allows visitors to walk through and experience birds in their natural habitat.

The exhibit will also include participatory graphics for children and colorful benches in the shape of snakes and alligators.

The exhibit is sponsored by Jitney Jungle Stores of America. The Jackson Zoo is open daily 9 a.m.-6 p.m. until Labor Day. After Labor Day hours will be 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Admission prices are adults $4, children 3-12, $12; children 2 and under and Friends of the Zoo are free.

Baughman takes Bay High into second year with confidence

Bay Coaching Staff

BY B. R. HAWKINS

Coach David Baughman is looking for maturity and leadership out of his seniors this season.

With ten players moving up to the senior class, Baughman and his staff have a level of maturity that gives them confidence that Bay High will be competitive every game.

"Of course, last year was a time of total rebuilding," Baughman said. "We have ten seniors this year and we are looking for leadership from them and a maturity that comes with experience."

Bay High seniors Rendell Haynes, Brent Haynes, Tony Bennett, Thomas Powell, John Senter, Matt Giattina, Derl Lang, Steven Boudro, Thomas Beebe and Michael Shaw have been charged with bolstering the Tiger confidence.

Baughman said his team worked hard this summer and took the Southwest 7-on-7 Passing Championship.

Quarterback Ty Barrett, a junior, will step into the shoes of Tank Williams who led the Tiger offense last year. Williams signed scholarships with Stanford after graduating Bay High.

"Barrett is quick and smart," Baughman said, "We will be relying on him heavily."

The Tigers are expecting another 1,000-yard season from 5'10" Tailback Tony Bennett. Bennett has great speed according to his coach, with a 4.4 second 40-yard sprint. Stats show he rushed for over a 1,000 yards in just six games.

Another element that is key in the Tigers competitiveness this season is junior wide receiver Ronald Brown. Brown, who runs a 4.29-second 40-yard dash, took in eight touchdown receptions last year. His collaboration with Barrett on passing patterns may prove to be Bay High's strongest offensive weapon.

Multi-talented Steven Boudro, who punts and alternates as an inside linebacker and tight end, averaged 52 yards a punt last year and marked up over 120 tackles.

Baughman said the real weight of the defense lies with him being an inspiration and an example. Boudro was voted Most Valuable Player in the Lineback position in the district.

"By far, we have had the best participation ever out of our team, Baughman said. "Our enthusiasm is high. The student body and the parents are backing us, and we look to win some games. Our goal is to post a winning season, but most important is that our guys are competitive in every outing."

Hancock High's strength lies in experience, depth

Hancock High Coaches

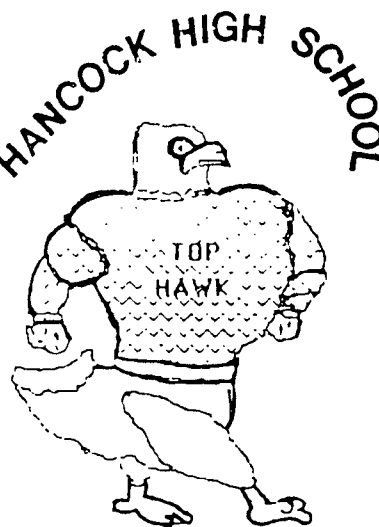

Hancock High School Athletic Director and head coach Rocky Gaudin leads returns a veteran coaching staff in Don Bounds, Mark Logan, Brenan Compretta, Andy Perniciaro, Michael Gaudin, Joey Brockhoff and Marty Grimes.

BY B. R. HAWKINS

Hancock High Head Coach Rocky Gaudin isn't poor mouthing about his players potential this season, but he'll assure you that he isn't puffing them up either.

"We are expecting a good year, this year," Gaudin said. "A lot of coaches will poor mouth at the beginning of the season, but I am going to be really honest with you and tell you that these guys together are perhaps one of the best teams we have had going into the season. Of, course they haven't thrown a single pass or scored a single point."

Hancock's offense suffered a setback in the summer with the loss of an experience fullback. But the Hawks' bench appears to be rising to the challenge in filling the vacancy. Chris Payne, a 5'10", 170 pound junior, did a good job last year and is in the running for the starter spot.

Halfback Darryel Williams is expecting another strong year. Williams averaged over 1,200 yards last year. "Darryel is going to do well for us this year," Gaudin said.

Skill wise, Hancock has a bit of in-house competition going on. Gaudin said he has 5'8", 175 pound Josh Williams vying for the quarterback slot with a taller Jason Burge. "Right now they are even steven in competing for the starter job," Gaudin said. "Either way, we are going to benefit from these two. They both have good experience. Overall, we have a well balanced offense."

The biggest defensive advantage the Hawks have is in their secondary with three returning seniors in Williams, who plays both offense and defense, Chris Goff, and Jason Burge.

Gaudin says his front five are strong and that on both ends he can stand his ground. "We are aggressive on defense and the depth we have this year is going to give our guys some rest and in the process give some experience to the bench," Gaudin said. "It really is a good situation."

LSU Tiger Preview

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Expectations are sky-high at LSU. A string of winning seasons, the return of running back Kevin Faulk, and a Top-10 preseason ranking have fans looking for big things this fall.

"When you're successful people expect you to keep being successful," coach Gerry DiNardo said. "That's OK. Believe me, I'd rather deal with that kind of pressure than the other kind. Especially when you have a team that should be able to live up to those expectations."

Despite offseason problems that saw the once over-stocked running back position depleted and several players cut or suspended, DiNardo admits the Tigers have a chance to win big this season.

"Mentally we can be as good as we want to be," said DiNardo, who enters his fourth season at LSU. "Physically, we've got a chance."

Pirates' talent, program growing

BY B. R. HAWKINS

Pass Pirate Head Coach Gavin Lott is glad to have gotten the awkward first year behind him. The veteran coach of 23 years in high school athletics, said while his players are still learning, they are getting stronger with every practice.

"Our guys have improved greatly over last year," Lott said, "They make great gains every day in confidence and the ability to work together as a team. I believe the stronger they get as a team, the better they will play."

Lott is dressing out only 37 players this season. Injuries will be a huge factor in Pirates stamina. "We aren't that deep on the bench," Lott said, "With only 37 players we are going to have to be really careful to stay healthy."

Lott will depend heavily on his seven returning seniors. "We are expecting good things out of Jeffery May, quarterback Jack Wilson, Seam Smith, Perry Harshbarger, Brad Dewitt, Cary Buel and tight end Eran Landry."

The Pirates posted a four and five record in 1997. Lott felt his team turned a corner near the end of the season. "I feel they started believing in themselves at the end of the season," Lott said. "They became competitive."

Lott praised the support of his parents. The Pass booster club meets the first and third Tuesday of the month. He said he felt that the enthusiasm was up this year. "We are beginning to get more kids out of the lower grades who are wanting to play," he said. "In many ways we are still building around here."

Rocks to build on experience

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws have nowhere to go but up from last season. The Rocks endured a 1-10 season last year with their only win coming against the Oak Grove Warriors by the score of 14-6. The win was SSC's Homecoming game.

Over the past few seasons the Rocks have not seen the win column all that often. Since the inception of the state playoff system at the beginning of the 1982 season, the Rocks have advanced to post-season play just once. That one time was the season of 1991.

Since then the Rocks have put up just one .500 season and endured an 0-27 streak.

The outlook on all that changed when Dave Kenson was hired two years ago. Kenson brought an exciting offensive plan to SSC. Even though SSC won just one game in Kenson's first season at the Catholic, all-boys school, it hasn't diminished the athlete's spirits.

Kenson says that there were no key losses from last year's team. He states, "There isn't a void on the team that we can't fill."

The key returners from last year are Jason Santiago at quarterback, Kris Cannon at running back, Stephen Peterman at tight end/defensive line, Willie Golden at offensive/defensive line, Roger Ridgeway at punter/runningback/linebacker, Cameron Byrne at running back/linebacker, Brandon Lewis at wide receiver/defensive back, and Joe Carambat at offensive/defensive line. The good news is that Ridgeway and Carambat are the only seniors.

Kenson attributes much of last season's failure to inexperience. He states, "We were very, very young. Now with a year of maturity under our belts, we are just young."

Last year, the Rocks saw five freshman and seven sophomores see significant playing time as starters. This year SSC will return 24 lettermen.

Two key additions to the program for this year are senior linebacker/offensive lineman Tom Brennan and junior defensive back/wide receiver Zach Gatlin. Brennan recorded 14 tackles in the Rocks' spring game loss to St. John. Gatlin transferred in as a boarder from Daphne, Alabama.

As summer training is being conducted the Rocks have three goals in mind. Kenson elaborated, "We are using this time before the first game to become a better-conditioned, more aggressive, and more competitive team than we were last year. For most of the young kids that started last year. It was their first taste of football. Now, we need to build on that experience."

Being so young, Kenson has adopted a little different type of goal for the team rather than a season long list of goals. Kenson has his team aimed and poised for the first game of the season.

Kenson added, "We are working right now to be 1-0 after the first game. We must become more aggressive and competitive, as a team, to enjoy more success than last year. We have to develop a winning attitude early. Looking past the first game with a season long goal is something that we cannot do."

The Rocks will participate in Division VIII-Class AAAA. Their opponents in the division are Bay High, Hancock, Pearl River Central, Picayune, Columbia, Petal, and Oak Grove. Besides the division opponents, the Rocks will play a tough non-division schedule. The non-division opponents are Pass High, Long Beach, Vancleave, and Greene County.

The Rock-a-chaw coaching staff is Kenson, Jay Ladner, Stan Dellenger, Stace McRaney, Wil Seymour, Errol Gauff, and Chris Yeager.

With time on their side, the Rocks plan to build on the experience of last year and take it one game at a time.

Golden Eagles open against Penn State

The 1998 Golden Eagles will officially begin their football year on August 9 when the 1998 signing class reports to campus. That group will go through three days of work with the Southern Miss coaching staff before the varsity squad reported on Aug. 11.

After a day of conditioning tests, two-a-day practices got underway on Aug. 13.

The 1998 Meet The Eagles/Media Day at M.M. Roberts Stadium was scheduled for Sunday, Aug. 16. Two-a-days will continue up until the beginning of the fall semester on campus, which is slated for Aug. 24.

The Golden Eagle football squad enters the 1998 season after a successful '97 campaign which saw them finish the year with a record of 9-3, a 41-7 win over Pittsburgh in the Liberty Bowl, and a final national ranking of 19th in both major polls.

With a large portion of the '97 team back for this season, the Golden Eagles are garnering plenty of national attention in the preseason. Here's a look at where the Eagles have ranked in the various preseason polls and a list of some of the awards Eagle players have already received.

Ranking Source

- 16 CBS SportsLine
- 18 College Sports News
- 18 Lindy's Southeastern Football
- 21 Street & Smith's College Football
- 21 The Sporting News
- 24 Athlon Sports

Thomas was listed as the nation's 24th best defensive end in Lindy's Southeastern Football Magazine. Thomas' preseason accolades didn't end there. He was also named second-team All-American by College Sports News and a first team All-American by Street & Smith's.

USM's defensive line was listed as the eighth best in the country according to The Sporting News, which claims that the Eagles could have one of the five best defensive lines in the nation by season's end.

Wide receiver Sherrod Gideon and offensive lineman Shederick Blackmon were both named honorable mention All-Americans by College Sports News.

The Golden Eagles will open the 1998 campaign in State College, Pa., against traditional national power Penn State. The game has been selected by ABC to be one of its regional telecasts that day and kickoff has been set for 2:30 p.m., (CDT). It will be the first network television appearance for a Southern Miss squad since Oct. 9, 1982, when the Golden Eagles defeated Mississippi State 20-14 in Jackson.

Even though the Penn State game will be the Eagles' first network television appearance in many years, Southern Miss has become a regular on television over the last two seasons. Including last year's Liberty Bowl appearance on ESPN, Southern Miss has had 15 of its last 23 games televised on a regional or national basis.

Several of the Eagles other 1998 contests are also expected to be televised, including the Sept. 19 home opener against Texas A&M and the Conference USA opener Oct. 3 at Tulane.

For more information on the 1998 Southern Miss football team contact the USM Media Relations Office at 601-266-4503.

Preseason drills

The Pearl River Community College Wildcats kicked off their 1998 preseason football drills Aug. 9 with 70 prospects reporting. Head coach Keith Daniels and his staff have until the Sept. 3 opener against Itawamaba to trim their roster to 55. The game will be played in Dobie Holden Stadium on the PRCC campus in Poplarville. Here freshman quarterback Jonathan Lott of Picayune uses his athletic skills to elude a barrage of tacklers in Sunday afternoon's scrimmage. (PRCC photo)

Daniels says Wildcats will rely heavily on 1998 recruiting

Sophomore players will provide a solid nucleus for the 1998 Pearl River Community College Wildcats, but fourth-year head coach Keith Daniels says success will depend heavily on newcomers.

Preseason drills started Aug. 9 with 70 prospects reporting on the Poplarville campus, and Daniels is looking for answers to numerous questions, but he says his 1998 recruiting class should provide plenty of talent to fill in the gaps.

Daniels said his team, which includes 50 freshmen, reported in "reasonably good shape, but we still have a lot of conditioning work to do."

"I've been very impressed with their enthusiasm and desire to learn. Our returning players have done a fine job in taking up where we left off. They have been able to recall what we were doing last season," he said.

Forty-three of Daniels' freshman prospects are from PRCC's supporting district of Forrest, Hancock, Jefferson Davis, Lamar, Marion and Pearl River counties.

"Obviously there are several freshmen who are going to play big roles this year, and a large number of them should play immediately," said Daniels.

Daniels took over the Wildcat reins in the spring of 1995 when former Wildcat mentor Willie Coats left The River for East Central Community College in Decatur. Daniels' team produced a 7-3 mark his inaugural season, but fell to 2-8 the following year. Last season the Wildcats finished 5-5.

Daniels says his offensive unit, which will run out of the "Pro I," is ahead of the defense primarily because of the Wildcats' experience on the offensive line.

"The offensive line is what makes our offense click and we've got needed experience there," Daniels said.

Sophomores David Fielder (6-2, 275) of Oak Grove, Derrick Franklin (5-10, 234) of Columbia, Chris Johnson (6-2, 275) of Grand Bay, Ala.; Greg Shuler (6-3, 235) of Carriere (Pearl River Central), Robbie Stewart (6-2, 285) of Hattiesburg (North Forrest) and Alan Thompson (6-2, 265) of Bay St. Louis all had valuable playing time on the offensive line last season.

Transfer Jeremy Drummond (6-3, 265) of Picayune, who red-shirted at Nicholls State last season, will also figure into the mix, along with seven talented freshmen.

Offensive-defensive line coach Mark Anderton says all of his freshman prospects have the ability to contribute this season, noting the likes of Robbie Miller (6-2, 270 of Hattiesburg, Brandon Smith (6-3, 230) of Diamondhead, Kris Strebeck

Keith Daniels

(6-1, 255) of Poplarville, Jeffery Thomas (6-2, 210) of Hattiesburg, Mark Williams (6-2, 240) of Diamondhead, and Andrew Willis (6-2, 265) of Picayune.

Alan Thompson

A big question mark heading into the season is sophomore quarterback Travis Cunningham (6-2, 180) of Waterloo, S.C., who underwent shoulder surgery last spring.

Cunningham shared back-up QB duties with Ricky Fremin of Belle Chase, La. (now the starter at Belhaven College in Jackson) for two-year starter Shane Tapper of Petal, who will take snaps for Mississippi College in Clinton this fall. Cunningham tossed only 7 passes in 1997, but completed 6 for 119 yards and 3 touchdowns. He also rushed for 83 yards on 25 carries and 2 TDs.

There is a heated race to decide on Cunningham's back-up with 3 freshman prospects in the Wildcat camp in Durrell Burkett (5-10, 170) of Purvis, Johnathan Lott (5-11, 185) of Picayune, and Jason Jones (6-0, 180) of Lumberton.

Cunningham will target "big play" flanker Desmond Bolar (6-0, 180) of Purvis, who should provide plenty of spark to the Wildcat offense this season. A year ago, the talented speedster paced PRCC with 561 receiving yards on 26 catches, but missed the season finale against Jones due to an ankle injury suffered the seventh week of the season.

He played only sparingly the eighth week of the season against Hinds.

Bolar finished 1997 as the No. 4 scorer on the team with 5 touchdowns (30 points) and was also PRCC's second best kickoff returner with 8 returns for 160 yards. Against Mississippi Gulf Coast last season, Bolar snagged 6 Tapper passes for 175 yards (season-high) and 2 TDs in a 61-55 South Division romp played in Perkinston.

He also had a 150-yard game against East Central last year.

Bolar's season yardage total is the second-highest in PRCC history behind Reggie Austin's 661 in 1990.

Freshmen Chris Marshall (5-8, 160) of Petal and Shaun Magee (5-9, 170) of Foxworth have both proven they can play the position on the JuCo level.

Freshman Larry Morrow (6-3, 185) of Oak Grove and Greg Mitchell (5-11, 175) of Picayune are in heated competition for the split end spot, and Daniels says both will see plenty of playing time.

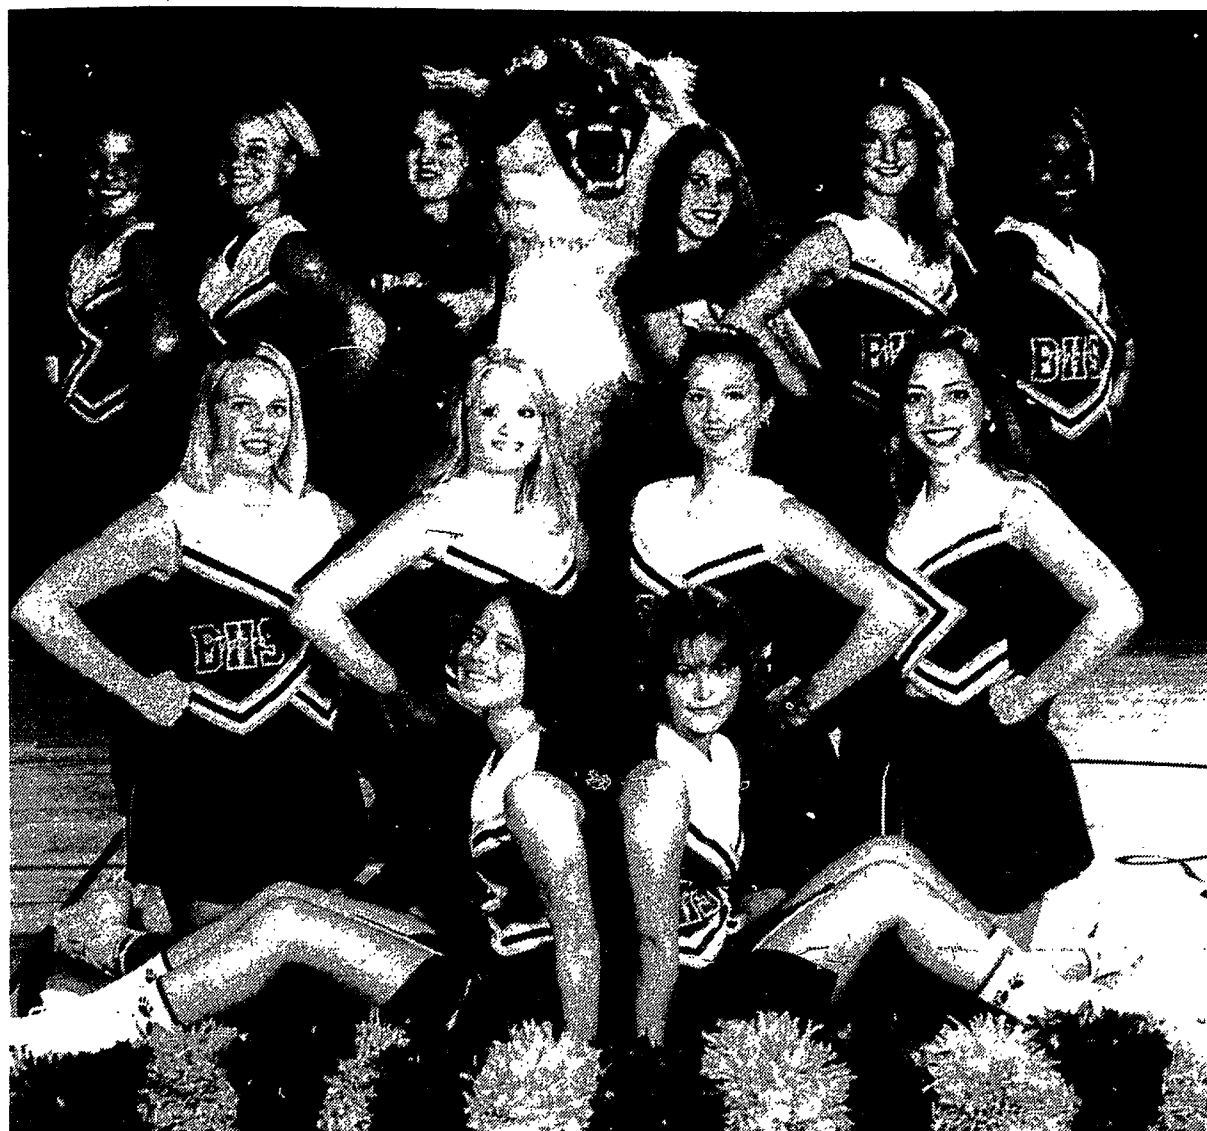

Tight end Nate Williams (6-5, 240) of Hattiesburg "has the size and ability you look for in a tight end," said Daniels.

Williams played in all 10 games last season and took over the starting spot after Juan Mariner of Oakvale was killed in an automobile accident following the second game of the year. Williams finished the season with 12 catches for 142 yards and 1 TD.

Koury Dickerson (6-3, 240) of Purvis was the Wildcats' deep snapper a year ago and retains those duties in 1998, but Daniels says he will see extra duty at tight end.

Linebacker-tight end coach Deke Adams said freshman Jeffery Thomas (6-2, 210) of Hattiesburg has also progressed well in the preseason and "could easily move up the depth chart."

Experience in the backfield is limited this season, but sophomore fullbacks Anthony Davis (6-1, 182) of Waterloo, S.C., and Cornelius Thornton (5-10, 165) of Blakely, Ga., should come through for the Wildcats.

Bay High Cheerleaders

LSU, returning 15 starters off a 9-3 team from a year ago, earned a pre-season No. 9 ranking and is expected to win the Southeastern Conference Western Division.

Tepper installed a new 3-4 alignment in the spring that he said will not be complete by the time the Tigers kick off Sept. 12 against Arkansas State.

"In the spring, we put in 48 percent of the defense when we planned on 60 percent," Tepper said. "The plan for the fall is to put in 73 percent. My guess is we won't reach that, but we'll go from there."

Another problem for Tepper is the loss of defensive line powers Kenny Mixon and Chuck Wiley.

Tepper will have four-year starter Anthony McFarland at nose tackle. He will also have last year's starters Charles Smith and Joe Wesley at line-backer. Wesley led the Tigers in tackles with 105 last season, only the fourth player in school history to top a hundred.

Saints hurting for a fullback

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — The ghost of departed Winfred Tubbs continues to haunt New Orleans Saints coach Mike Ditka, who is trying to plug the middle of his 4-3 defense.

Thus far, an adequate replacement has not been found heading into Saturday night's exhibition game against the Tennessee Oilers in the Louisiana Superdome.

His apparent Brian Jones has not fulfilled his own expectations or those of club officials, and for the moment he has lost the starting job to free-agent middle linebacker Kevin Mitchell.

"At this point, he (Mitchell) is the starter, but this point is Tuesday," Ditka said between practices at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. "That could change, but that's what we're doing right now."

Moments later, Ditka provided a glimpse of the bigger picture on defense.

"I would be a liar to say we have adequately replaced (Tubbs)," Ditka said.

From mid-February on, Ditka and team officials have tried to put a positive spin on Tubbs' defection to the San Francisco 49ers, touting Jones as a competent replacement based on his training camp performance a year ago.

Fact is, since entering the NFL as an eighth-round pick by the Raiders in 1991, Jones has started nine games, eight with the Saints in 1995 and 1996. He has one sack in 43 NFL games.

The Saints also brought in Mitchell, a backup with the 49ers, as the primary competition in the middle. To date, Jones, who was sidelined last season with a knee injury, has not delivered and Mitchell might be nothing more than a stopgap measure.

Not only is Jones concerned about losing the starting job, but he also is concerned that he might lose a spot on the final 53-man roster.

"I've been thinking about it for three weeks now, trying to figure out what's going on with me," said Jones, 30. "I have no idea. But I better find out real quick because time is running out."

"I haven't been the Brian Jones that Mike Ditka and his coaches saw last year. I haven't been that type of player. So it's all on me."

Jones said the solution to his problem is simple.

"I've got to go full speed and be aggressive and play football the way I've always played football," he said. "I've got to play my game, which is aggression. I haven't been aggressive. I haven't been hitting people. I think I've had one good hit this whole camp. I've got to be more aggressive and get after people."

"There is nothing anyone can say to me. It's all on me. I've got to get it together. But don't worry. I'm not going down without a fight."

Ditka still trying to be a nice

Top pick Kyle Turley has moved into the starting lineup. But not at right tackle. Clarence Jones has held onto his starting job there. Turley was switched to left guard this past week and after just two practices elevated into a starting role ahead of five-year veteran Isaac Davis.

It is now Turley's job to lose, although coach Mike Ditka downplayed the move by saying it's just another attempt by the offensive staff to determine the five best linemen and get them on the field. Turley's first start was to come Friday against the defending Super Bowl champion Broncos. But it was his performance in a mid-week practice and scrimmage against the Cowboys coupled with some average work by Davis that put Turley over the top.

"He played hard and he played the way you want him to," said line coach Dick Stanfel. "He's starting to come around. He's learning." Stanfel believes Turley, who was a four-year starter at tackle at San Diego State, is better suited to playing guard as a professional.

"He looks better at guard than at tackle," Stanfel said. "He's a little stiff at tackle. He still could play there and it doesn't mean that he won't play there."

But for now Turley is lining up next to All-Pro left tackle Willie Roaf which presumably will influence the running game into being more left side conscious.

There were three other lineup changes following the team's 31-7 blowout by the Packers in the exhibition opener. Lamar Smith has replaced Troy Davis at one running back, Kevin Mitchell will start at middle linebacker ahead of Brian Jones and first-year free agent Josh Wilcox has moved ahead of Nicky Savoie and Marcus Hinton at tight end.

The team's top two tight ends, starter John Farquhar and second-round pick Cam Cleeland, have foot and ankle injuries respectively. Cleeland was expected back this week.

Strong-side linebacker Andre Royal has been fined an undisclosed amount but escaped suspension after apologizing to Ditka following an ugly, profanity-laced shouting match between the two on the practice field.

Royal and Ditka's exchange came following Royal's first practice of training camp. It was sparked by Ditka questioning Royal for missing 22 practices with a calf muscle strain. Royal erupted and began cursing. Ditka, however, did not swear, maintaining his vow to eliminate profane language from his vocabulary.

Royal was expected to replace Richard Harvey as a starter after leaving the Panthers as a restricted free agent. Royal signed a four-year, $3.805 million with the first $2 million guaranteed. The guaranteed money of the contract certainly contributed to Ditka's suspicion that Royal was holding back from practice.

"Earn the money we're paying you," Ditka screamed at Royal to ignite the screaming match.

Heath Shuler has hit another setback in his comeback from left foot surgery. Shuler practiced once this past week and was back on the sidelines with an even more noticeable limp than before. Even worse is the injury has begun to affect Shuler's passing, particularly his follow-through. Shuler has practiced just four times since camp opened, putting his roster spot in jeopardy.

Team officials will have to look elsewhere for defensive line help after end Fernando Smith opted to sign with the Jaguars. Smith was the top remaining free agent prospect available. Team officials offered Smith more money in 1998 in their three-year offer than he accepted, one-year, $1.6 million, from Jacksonville. Joe Johnson's holdout and tackle Pio Sagapolutele arm injury leaves Coordinator Zaven Yarialian without two of his top five linemen. Sagapolutele is likely out for the season after undergoing surgery for a torn right triceps tendon.

FEARLESS FORECAST

At age 59, Mike Ditka isn't likely to change his ways. He is a speak-first, think-second individual. Nor should he change. His shoot-from-the-lip candor is one of the features that makes Ditka the character he is.

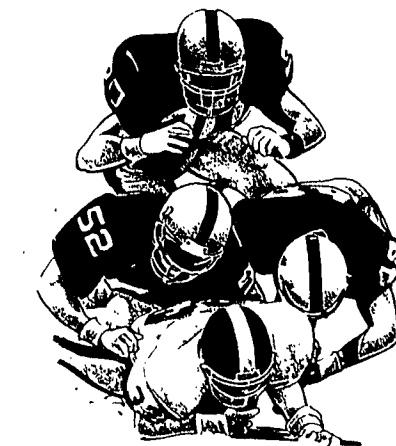

In the case of linebacker Andre Royal, however, Ditka would have been better served to deliver his opinions on Royal's injury behind closed doors. One on one with Royal. Not on the practice field in front of the team and media.

Ditka then painted himself in a corner by saying he would suspend and/or fine Royal. Suspending a player who had missed the first 22 practices of training camp would have served little purpose. After heavy deliberation with team officials and his assistant coaches, Ditka opted for a more sensible route, a fine. Whether it holds up to a grievance challenge, which Royal is almost certainly to file, remains to be seen.

Likely it will not because Ditka did bait Royal into their confrontation. For now, it's behind both player and coach.

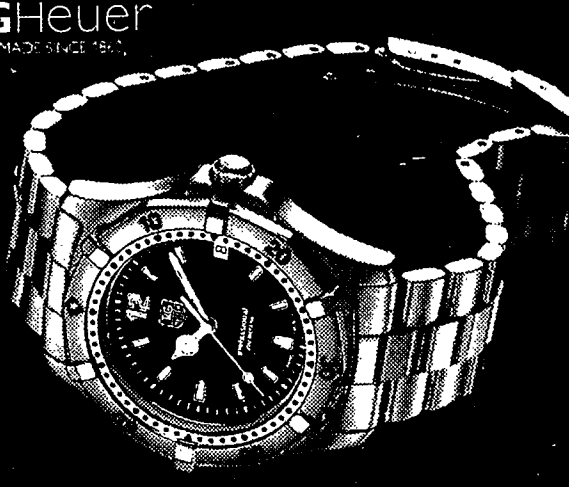

"I've made mistakes in my life and he made a mistake," Ditka said after announcing he was fining Royal an undisclosed amount. "What he did was wrong, and I probably tried to motivate him in a way in which I haven't motivated people for a while. I tried to rub him a little bit... but he responded a little bit differently than I thought he would. But he also came in like a man and apologized, said he was wrong. I explained to him that I don't want it ever to happen again, to anybody. To anybody in the organization."

MSU Bulldog Preview

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) -- Mississippi State conducted a scrimmage Wednesday that was designed to help the coaching staff evaluate the newcomers.

A trio of freshman running backs got playing time, with Dicenzo Miller leading the way with eight carries for 29 yards and a touchdown. Pig Prather ran four times for 27 yards while Justin Griffith had two carries for seven yards and a TD.

Highly touted freshman defensive end Conner Stephens, who sat out both practice sessions Tuesday with a sprained knee, took part in the scrimmage. He had three tackles, including a quarterback sack.

"This scrimmage was set up for the younger guys," coach Jackie Sherrill said. "We want to try to make sure that we're getting them in the right spots. We know what our veteran players can do. We need to take a look at the tape and see exactly where we are with the younger guys."

Sherrill and his staff took a look at all five quarterbacks, but again concentrated on the younger candidates.
